139-132 SPELLS GREY'S DEFEAT

Two spectators were sitting on the beach, waiting for the first glimpse of the noses of the war canoes, plowing through the waters of Lake Webb.

"Wouldn't it be grand to see a tie race?" one of them remarked.

"Yes, that would be a real thrill. But that's rather not likely to happen," was the reply.

But, lo and behold! It did happen and that very day, too. In one of the very rare instances in the history of Camp Kawanhee, the Maroon and Grey war canoes paddled to a dead heat. The spectacle was a real inspiration to the gallery and a double victory for Coach Armstrong.

The first race of interest was the mid-geet's rowboat singles. In this event, the contestants used kayak paddles. The orchestra should have been on shore, playing the "Volga Boatmen" for such was the rhythm with which the tiny

CAMP AGAIN HEARS "FARMER" DAVE CORY

At last! Kawanhee's long lost artist is back. Dave (Farmer) Cory once more had Berry Theatre in an uproar over his antics. He has mastered the "Maniac" accent almost to perfection and the delight with which he was received last Thursday evening shows it.

But the play itself, while not a failure by any means, still did not measure up to the past productions of the Footlight Knights. It had one excellent spot in it, however. The gymnastics of Bob "Pat" Paterson and Hal Myers on the ladder was really comical. Peeter John was a success also.

On the whole, the play was all right for we must consider the difficulties concerned in putting on a play with such a large cast and in such a short time. The work of George Tittman and Whitney Murphy is to be admired greatly. Camp Kawanhee has seen good shows.

AQUATIC TRIALS START THIS WEEK

This week marked the initiation of the trials to pass the levels of achievement in aquatics. The swimming department plans to work right on down through the camp, starting with the seniors.

Both swimming and diving have been included in the first part of the levels. It is felt that the two are essentials in a well rounded aquatician (one who likes to indulge in water sports). This will also be an incentive for beginners to try diving for there have been many cases where a real enjoyment has developed from such a start.

Boating and canoeing have also been included in the levels. This is a marvelous opportunity to learn these two activities well and enjoy them during the summer. It should not be passed up.

THE WIGWAM

A newspaper published weekly at Camp Kawanhee, Weld, Maine

Editorial

The Wigwam wishes to congratulate the directors upon resuming the original form of Sunday morning church service. We feel that, however beneficial the system of small discussion groups may be in theory, there is nothing that can take the place of the united church service in creating a lasting impression on all, young and old, who attend it. When the system of small groups was introduced at the beginning many of us felt a certain relief when it was announced frankly as nothing more than experiment. We would be the last to discourage such experiments, for it is only by tests of this kind that the camp progresses, but we are candidly glad that this plan has failed, for this season at least.

And our reasons for this stand are these: we feel that the good derived from the small group is not matched by the communion experienced in a united service. Let's let everyone in on the wisdom of our "Preachers".

THE MAJORS

And still the league progresses. What does a little rain matter? Not at all to "Hurry-in-Hurry-out" Luke Ward for he simply "hurried out the teams, played the games and "hurried in the scores. Presto -- the league is on schedule.

In the American League, Chicago and New York are neck 'n neck. It will be close. To our minds, Boston better hang up. This worthy team hasn't won a single tilt. However, this league cannot boast of a thousand percent as can the National League, the Cincinnati team having won four straight.

WATER MEET

tots paddled. That athlete of the first water, Dave Lincoln, won the race.

The Greys staged a complete upheaval in the Junior A canoe tilting. All three of their teams handed the opposing Maroon's aggregations a nice cool dip in the not-so-briny deep.

Johnny Taussig looped th loop so fast in the loop the loop race for the Junior B's that he accused the Dean, one of the judges at the finish, of standing on his (Dean's) head. Johnny felt much better after he had eaten his cracker and whistled (boy, did the cracker crumbs ever fly?).

An excellent fancy diving exhibition was given by Bryant and Christner. The former performed from the high board, thrilling the crowd with his novelty stunt diving, while Earnie Christner gracefully cleaved the water from the low board.
