Huntington, Dezer Head Teams Maroons Grab Point Winners

The Grey and Maroon captains have chosen their teams, and the sides are lined up for the annual battle of points. Charles Dezer of Englewood, New Jersey, in camp for his first summer; and Ted Huntington, of Columbus, Ohio, now spending his fifth year at Kawanhee, are the captains. Both are in the Wild Cat Lodge. Ted won the toss of a coin at dinner, last Friday, and chose to head the Maroon team, leaving Charlie as captain of the Greys.

Friday evening, the whole camp gathered in front of the Rec Hall for the momentous occasion of choosing sides. The toss of a coin, won by Dezer this time, gave the Grey captain first choice. He was wise in selecting Ross Chism as one of his team mates, since last year, as a Maroon, Ross was high point winner with 664 points. The Maroons made a good move in choosing Webby

Ma and Betty First on Deck, Lawrence and Emma Follow

The ice was out of the lake earlier than usual this spring, and the weather was in its best form to welcome Ma Frank and Mr. Burtis, the season's first arrivals on May 20. Peleg White, of Weld, had been on the job all winter, shovelling the heavy snow drifts off the buildings and cutting the big pile of firewood for the summer, but with Ma's arrival, the season had truly begun. She came early because she was feeling ready for a busy summer and there was much work to be done. On June 2, Miss Betty Frank and her nurse arrived to spend the summer on Pine Point. Betty brought with her the considerable vocabulary she had acquired during the winter. The next week saw the coming of Lawrence and Emma Briggs, the co-rulers of the kitchen. And no better reception committee for the horde of campers could be found than Lawrence and Emma in the kitchen over a steaming breakfast, and Ma Frank waving a greeting from her front porch.

Faithful Advance Guard Oils, Mends, Paints for Opening

By T. BATEMAN, Jr. A

Every year I come to Kawanhee about a week before camp opens. I am going to tell you about the work that has to be done before the boys get here on the first of July.

The motor boats, sail boats, canoes and row boats have to be taken out. The canoes and row boats are painted. The motor boats have to be fixed. The sails have to be mended. Lawrence, the Cook, paints the boats. Ma Frank mends the sails.

The lodges are opened up and the mattresses are put on the beds. The two drinking fountains are put into operation. Uncle Charlie does this. There is much wood to get for the Main Lodge, Ma Frank's cabin and the Recreation Hall.

The docks must also be put in. The big dock was in when I came this year. Some of the men from Weld had put it in. Bates and some of the other counsellors put in the little dock the day before camp opened.

The floors in the Recreation Hall and the dining room are oiled. Another job is to get the lumber for the shop. Council Point must be fixed up for the camp fires and, this year, many stumps were pulled out of the path leading to it. The back stops for the tennis courts and the baseball diamonds were all put in new this year. About the last job is to get all the duffle bags and trunks in Wilton and bring them to camp.

The Wigwam Explains

The WIGWAM wishes to explain that this first issue, necessarily devoted to organization, is not typical. Future numbers will report the more exciting weekly events: the league baseball games of Monday afternoon, the Friday night shows, the water meets held every Saturday afternoon. All major trips will be covered. The important list of achievement levels, passed each week, will be included, along with such extracts from the Log as the back page can bear with dignity. See your WIGWAMS for hot Kawanhee news!

Big Staff Turnover Brings New Faces, New Ideas

Each season Kawanhee greets a number of new counsellors, many of whom return year after year until they become veterans in their own right. This year, due to the unsettled state of national affairs, there is a somewhat larger turnover in our counselling staff than is usual. After knowing these men for only a few days, we can say with assurance that they measure up to the high traditions of Kawanhee personnel, and we hope that this season will not be their only one among us.

Most of the activity departments are under the same leadership as last year, but almost every activity has new assistants, and there are new men at the head of the range, woodcraft,

Campers Give Pledge, Receive Blessing, in Solemn Ceremony

By J. HARRIS, Jr. A

The first night of camp the members of the Kawanhee tribe, both old and new alike, gathered at Council Point for the annual ceremony of the coming of the Chief.

At 7:30 on the dot, the bugle sounded and all the lodges gathered together at the Recreation Hall. Mr. Raymond Frank called us in by lodges and we all sat on the long benches. After we were seated, Mr. Frank told us about the early history of the Webb Lake valley and about Chief Kawanhee and his son, Skookamee.

After that, we silently trooped up the winding trail to the clearing on the point. Under our blankets we all carried sticks with which to pledge our loyalty to Kawanhee. As we waited, Mr. Frank called to the Chief in a clear voice. He had to call three times before the Chief, colorfully decorated in an Indian costume, arrived to greet us. The Chief told us to throw our sticks into the central fire to show that we all had brought something to give to our life here. This was to bind us to Kawanhee.

With a final blessing from the Chief, we trooped back to camp, with the slow call of Taps in our ears.

The Kawanhee Tribe of the American Nation

"It's hard to believe that we've ever been away." "It seems only yesterday that we left." These remarks were frequently heard during the first day of camp. With another season rapidly getting under way, there was throughout the camp such a feeling of everything-is-just-as-it-should-be, that ten months might almost have been lost from our calendars.

Those ten months, however, were not months which history mislaid. They were months of war and conquest and human suffering on a gigantic scale. They were months during which our own great nation moved steadily toward a conflict which it hates but does not fear, which it may one day be forced to enter to remain the great nation that it is. Those ten months were crowded—too crowded with events which may shape the lives of every boy and man at Kawanhee.

Is it not a dangerous illusion, then, this feeling of rightness, of continuity, of permanence, which make us forget the months away from camp? Certainly it is dangerous if we think of Kawanhee as just a wonderful shell of green forests, cool lake, and happy weeks, into which we can crawl and let the rest of the world go hang. But Kawanhee is more than that. It is a part of something much greater. It is a part of America, because it is so typically American. Since this is a time when we should think very earnestly about being Americans, it is a time when we should stop to think what it means to be Americans at Kawanhee.

It means the right to grow, to be healthy, to become strong, not because health and strength are demanded by the state, but because they are our due as free boys and men. It means the opportunity to learn the things that we want to learn, to choose the activities, athletics, nature or shop, which interest us most, and not just to learn those things which someone tells us

Captains and Teams

Davis, who earned 555 points last year, the second highest score in camp. Ethan Davis, chosen by the Greys, should be a valuable man, since his individual score was 550 in last August's final count. Nick Evans, who went to the Maroons this year, previously earned 510 points for the Greys. Out of last year's twelve highest point winners, Huntington has chosen nine and Dezer, the Grey captain, only three. Thus, the Maroons seem to have an advantage, if last year's high point men work as hard this year as they did last. But there are forty new boys at Kawanhee, and nothing can be said, as yet, about their ability to earn points.

During the eighteen years of Grey-Maroon competition, the Maroons have won ten times and the Greys eight times. The Greys have had the edge recently, taking three victories in four years. The coming weeks will see levels passed, track meets and water meets won, and Scout merit badges and Junior Life Saving courses completed. Accompanying all this achievement will be the deluge of points, some for the Greys, some for the Maroons. Will the Maroons' apparent superiority in high-point winners carry them to victory? Will the Grey team retain the advantage it has enjoyed during the past four years? We will all know the answer in seven weeks, when an armistice to this peaceful battle of points will be declared.

we must learn. It means the freedom of the "bull-session", that peculiarly American institution where ideals and beliefs are formed in friendly argument, not proscribed by propaganda. It means the priceless liberty of a sense of humor, the liberty to kid anyone, be he midget or director, and the honesty to enjoy the joke when we ourselves are kidded. It means the freedom of this lovely land, the freedom to swim in this lake, to climb these mountains, to know and love the great and peaceful Presence which abides in the beauty of this happy valley.

All this it means to be a member of the Kawanhee tribe. Remembering this, we do well to accept the feeling of continuity and permanence that comes with the beginning of another season. It is no illusion, Kawanhee's values are American values and it is in the permanence of these values that every American wholeheartedly believes, today more than ever before.

Footlight Knights Shine Again. Adams New Thespian Dynamo

By F. HENRY, M. C.

With dramatic gestures and intense feeling, the eloquent John Adams, commander-in-chief of Kawanhee's dramatic efforts, predicted to a representative of the WIGWAM a brilliant and successful season in the local theatrical circles. He stated that the coöperation of the directors, counsellors, and campers has been fine, and it is this coöperation that insures the success of the productions. He expects to make muslin-painted flats and will welcome any voluntary aid in his department.

The first production, scheduled for Friday, July 11th, is entitled The Prince and the Pauper. Two of the roles are taken by veterans of this production, Nick Evans and David Trowbridge, who have twice played their roles this recent winter at the Columbus Academy.

The second play billed for the Kawanhee stage is The Feed Store Mystery, a farce comedy starring the famous Sherlock Bones. A camp favorite, Indian Nuts, is planned for the third week. This concerns two strange Indian chiefs and their experiences with some young boys. For his fourth production, Mr. Adams has selected a play of a patriotic nature and his fifth is another old camp favorite, A Night at an Inn.

The Footlight Knights, it appears, will have ample opportunity to shine and the Berry Theatre will resound with applause many times this summer.

Midgets Visit Sunday Beach, Row Through Narrows

By F. JONES, Midget

Last Sunday after dinner, the Eagles and the Falcons started on a boat ride. We went in three boats with a counsellor in each one. We headed down through the narrows, where there were a lot of lily pads, which we reached out for and caught. I rowed for a little while, but couldn't keep the boat going straight. When we got down to the dam, some men were fishing. We didn't want to bother them, so we turned around and went back towards Sunday Beach. We rowed around some rocks sticking out of the water, and went in to Sunday Beach. At Sunday Beach we played around for a while and found a council ring in the woods. It was getting late, so we started back for camp and arrived in time for afternoon swim.

COUNSELLORS AND JUNIOR COUNSELLORS

MR. GEORGE FRANK and MR. RAYMOND FRANK are the owners and directors of Camp Kawanhee for the twenty-first year.

MR. H. C. MARSHALL is Head Counsellor and Director of Activities at Kawanhee for the twenty-first year. At home, he is the Headmaster of the Columbus Boy Choir School.

Fourteen of this year's senior counsellors have served in this capacity in previous seasons.

CLARENCE BATEMAN, for the ninth year, has charge of all trips in the camp truck. He teaches industrial arts at West High School at his home in Columbus, Ohio.

RICHARD BITTENBENDER, a counsellor of long standing, will be at camp for an indefinite period this summer, as he is under a temporary deferment from military service. While he is here, he will assume his old duties in the woodcraft department. Dick lives in Tuckahoe, N. Y., and has just completed his first year at the Columbia University College of Law.

DAVID BRYANT is the eagle-eyed lodge inspector for the third season and is also the leader of the individual guidance work at camp. He lives in Columbus, where he teaches history at Franklin University.

MORSE BURTIS presides over the camp post-office and store for his fourth season. His home is in Englewood, N. J.

MURRAY CHISM, of Tenaflly, N. J., is an assistant editor of the WIGWAM and director of the indoor game program for his fourth year as counsellor. He will be a senior next fall at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me.

MR. and MRS. CHARLES GOODWIN are directors of the nature department and also of Kawanhee's special Midget program. At his home in Columbus, Mr. Goodwin is at the head of the science department of the Columbus Academy.

HOWARD JOHNSON is the swimming instructor for the second season. Living in Hamden, Conn., he is a senior at Yale, and an outstanding collegiate swimmer.

RALPH LUCAS, of Columbus, a freshman at the Ohio State University College of Law, is spending his fifth summer as a Kawanhee counsellor. He is an assistant editor of the WIGWAM and keeps the campers' activity records.

DR. ROSS MILLER, of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Springfield, Ohio, assumes his duties as camp chaplain for the fifteenth season. He also has the important position of camp fire story teller.

READ MURPHY, an old-time camper, is sailing master, and admiral of Kawanhee's fleet for the second year. His home is in Englewood, and he is a senior at Yale University.

WILLIAM MYERS is also a camper of long standing. He will assist on the range, and in the shop and dark room. His home is in Morristown, N. J., and he is a sophomore at Brown University.

NOEL PIERSCHKE has one of the longest service records of any counsellor, as he is entering upon his sixteenth season. At camp he is the director of handicraft, and at his home in Columbus he teaches architecture and mechanical drawing at Central High.

CAMPBELL SCARLETT is also an ancient Kawanhian, this being his eighteenth summer here. He is the omniscient writer of the camp log and editor of the WIGWAM. He tutors and writes at his home in Columbus.

MARSHALL UMPLEBY, the headmaster of the Englewood School for Boys, will spend the month of August in camp. While he is here, he will assist with fishing and trips, and will serve as a kind of minister without portfolio.

STEPHEN WHITNEY, a senior counsellor in 1936, is with us again this year, as instructor in fishing and assistant in the Midget program. He lives at Andover, Mass., where he teaches French at Phillips Academy.

HAROLD WISE is back as director of athletics after one year of absence from the Kawanhee fold. He is the assistant coach in football, basketball and baseball at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

The following junior counsellors have all spent one or more seasons as campers and master campers.

WALTER BARRINGTON, camp bugler and assistant in woodcraft, begins his first year as junior counsellor. He is a senior in the high school at his home in Montclair, N. J.

JOHN BITTENBENDER, also in his first year as junior counsellor, is assistant in woodcraft and trips. He lives in Tuckahoe, N. Y., and is a senior at Theodore Roosevelt High.

GLENN GOODWIN completes the family trio in the nature department and also assists in fishing and with the midget program. He is a senior at the Columbus Academy.

CHARLES LAMBORN is an assistant in range and shop, in addition to his principal duties with the motor boats. He is a senior at North High in Columbus.

BUD MILLER is a lifeguard and instructor in aquatics. An old camper, it is his first year as junior counsellor. He lives in Springfield, O., and is a senior at Deerfield Academy.

DAVID TILTON is an instructor on the archery range. He is a senior in North High School in Columbus, O.

WILLIAM YARDLEY, during his second year as junior counsellor, will assist with golf and canoe trips, and also be the official score keeper. He lives in Columbus and is a sophomore at Ohio State.

Infirm Takes Auspicious Tack, Doctor is Handy, Mac is Back

By R. CHISM, M. C.

The infirmary on the hill is one of the busiest and most important buildings at Kawanhee, for it is the health center of camp, and health is one of the camp's main objectives. The hospital has beds for six patients and this year is in charge of Miss Marie McElwee, an old friend at Kawanhee, who is back after a year's absence, and Miss Margaret Fast, here for the first time. Both are registered nurses and both graduated from the White Cross Hospital Training School for Nurses. Here at camp, there is at least one nurse to be found on duty at any hour of the day or night throughout the season, ready to treat or care for such minor ailments as may develop. The nurses check over the weekly weight figures of every one of the ninety campers, placing those who are underweight on the malted milk list.

Always on call are Dr. Maynard B. Colley whose office is in Wilton, fourteen miles away, and Dr. Garfield G. Defoe, in Dixfield, twelve miles from camp. On the first day of camp, Dr. Colley conducted the physical examination of every boy and man in camp, which accompanied the first taking of weights and measurements.

With these people as guardians of health at Kawanhee, all concerned are insured a safe and enjoyable summer.

New Counsellors

dramatics, boating, tennis, and archery departments.

JOHN ADAMS is the new dramatics coach, and we hear that some good plays are already on the boards. Mr. Adams lives in Columbus, where he is the instructor in dramatics at the Lower School of the Columbus Academy.

GEORGE BECKETT is the new head of the woodcraft department, and the scoutmaster of the Kah-ne-do-ge-nah troop which is organized each year at Kawanhee. His home is in Englewood, and he is a junior at Hobart College in Geneva, N. Y.

GEORGE BRANDON is in charge of woodworking in the camp shop. At his home in Columbus, he teaches industrial arts at Central High.

JACK FORD is the new master of the archery range, and will assist in boxing when classes are organized. He lives in Columbus and is a junior at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio.

ROGER FROST, of New Haven, Connecticut, is a tennis instructor. During the winter he attends Hobart College at Geneva, N. Y.

PETER HERSHBERGER is a swimming instructor and also plans to organize a class in touch football. He will be well qualified, as he is a member of the varsity team during his senior year at Ohio State. Pete's home is in Columbus.

J. A. PRESTLE is the camp secretary. His home is in Englewood, where he is an instructor in commercial subjects at Dwight Morrow High School.

CURTIS STOCKING is the new head of the tennis department. He lives in Columbus, Ohio, where, after his graduation from Ohio State, he has been a writer.

KEITH THWAITES had a long road to Kawanhee, as he hails from way down under in Wellington, New Zealand. Coming to the United States through the YMCA, he is a junior at Springfield College, and is spending this summer as instructor in boating and canoeing.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE, of Columbus, is the new range master. Next fall he will enter upon his junior year at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

GEORGE WILLIAMS is associated with both fishing and athletic activities at camp. He is planning to organize special boxing and wrestling classes soon. Mr. Williams is the successor to Coach Wise as athletic coach at West High School in Columbus.

Sunday Morning Service

The first church service of the camp season was held in the woodland chapel beside the lake. After the singing of Come, Thou Almighty King and O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee, George Beckett led the responsive reading and the scripture was read by Bill Myers. Mr. R. C. Frank delivered the address and chose as his theme "Knocking holes in the darkness." The customary offering was taken for the needy of this community.
