Score Waxes as Season Wanes

The Maroons rode the top of the score in its biggest forward leap to increase their lead again on August 13th. At the campfire of that evening, the current totals were announced as: Maroons, 13,708; Greys, 11,504. This discovered the Maroon advantage to be 2204 points, an apparent gain of 593 over their reported margin of 1611 the previous Saturday. In actuality, the gain was even larger for the total of August 13th had absorbed a revision of the score resulting from the discovery that two Greys had been erroneously listed as Maroons on the scorekeeper's records. Their joint earnings of 215 points had therefore been subtracted from the Maroon total and added to that of the Greys.

The combined efforts of the two teams accounted for 9589 points in the course of the week. With the exception of the 189 points won at the water meet, Achievement Levels were the sole source of the impressive sum. In point-production, the Athletics Department led the field, chalking up seventy-five levels worth 2060 points. The ever active Boating Department was a close second, reporting fifty-eight levels valued at 1945 points. Only Wrestling was unrepresented in the week's score. Not that Kawanhee wrestlers had been inactive! On the contrary, the department had had its busiest week, advancing the tournaments in virtually all of the weight classes through the semi-finals. The points earned thereby, however, were being held in escrow pending the finals scheduled for August 20th.

Saturday's report was the final accounting of the score to be heard before the banquet. It found the Maroons in an enviable position, but this fact did not indicate that the Greys could be counted out by any means. Their lesser portion of points week after week has never adequately reflected the quality of the Grey team's leadership, nor the consistent good work of the rank and file of the Greys. As the situation stands, they may in the final ten days of activities have the opportunity of cashing in on numerous levels which the Maroons have already exhausted. Big blocks of points from Life Saving, tournaments, and other once-a-year reports are still to be registered as well. In short, the race is still wide open.

Thirty-eight Lifesavers Complete Course

Merry-go-rounds, or the circles which Junior and Senior Lifesavers swim to build up their endurance, ended for the 1960 season on Saturday, August 6th. On that date and on the day before, Kawanhee's thirty-four new Junior Lifesavers and four new Senior Lifesavers underwent their final written and practical examinations. Their work has been scored and graded, and all of the candidates have successfully met the rigid requirements which the American Red Cross sets for its lifesavers.

The boys worked an hour a day for five full weeks under the watchful eyes of their instructors, Gardner Defoe, Dave Ferguson and Bill Keating in order to complete the requirements. Personal safety in swimming and diving, the building of endurance and confidence, and the knowledge and ability to rescue a drowning person in the safest possible manner were stressed.

Important phases of the course were personal and group safety precautions, elementary methods of rescue from the shore or dock, and safe swimming approaches to a drowning person. A large portion of time was devoted to learning tactics for subduing panicky swimmers, who often endanger lifesavers in drowning situations. The two latest approved methods of artificial respiration were taught as necessary in situations where stoppage of breathing has occurred. All phases of the course were taught from the viewpoint of "your safety first", the motto of this summer's class.

The new Junior and Senior Lifesavers are the following:

Juniors: P. Adriance, R. Bittenbender, J. Brainard, L. Brainard, R. Carrick, P. Connor, D. DeValle, H. Eskesen, T. Fischgrund, J. Gladfelter, B. Griffin, W. Langer, W. Lawrence, H. Lorentzen, K. Love, J. Mogabgab, W. Neldig, D. Nimkin, G. Noble, T. Nolan, D. O'Hare, C. Park, T. Patton, D. Pearson, R. Rugen, D. Savage, J. Sheehan, T. Smith, W. Turnbull, R. Vockel, J. Waters, R. Wells, R. Welton, R. Yantes.
Seniors: G. Benua, D. Hoch, F. Johnson, L. Merrill.

Junior B Reports on Nature in the Raw

One day I saw one of the tragedies of nature. My friend was with me. We saw a bee. My friend took a swat at it and missed it. It flew right into a spider's web. While the bee was struggling to get out of the net, the spider came down and started to sting the bee. Then the spider tied the bee's legs with the web. The spider kept on stinging the bee and finally the bee was quieted down enough so that the spider could kill the bee. The spider did and won the battle. The End.

Kennebec Trips Test Kawanhee Canoeists

Like a long awaited space probe, the first half of the Junior A—Senior canoe trip left camp on Tuesday, August 9th, destined for the Kennebec River. After an eighty-mile ride in Bates' Bouncing Buggy and a short midmorning stop in Bingham for last minute supplies and something for the boys to munch on, we arrived at The Forks picnic area for lunch. With the fast, rapid-ridden Kennebec at our side, most everyone was itchy to try his hand at guiding the red, keelless Kawanhee canvas canoes downstream.

The lead canoe contained a canoe veteran and leader of the expedition, Roy Nickerson (Nick), with B. Connor as his bowman and R. Wells in the center. R. McGee headed the second canoe during the first afternoon with H. Ticknor as his bowman. B. Welton had the stern position in the third with F. Stewart in the bow. Yours Truly steered the fourth canoe and G. Lamb was the bowman. K. Love sat out the first day in the middle. J. Willis directed the fifth canoe with P. Woodward as his bowman. Jack Welton, the third member of the counselor staff, took stern in the end canoe and D. Bittenbender was his bowman. T. Patton occupied the middle.

Since the Kennebec is a major log transporter of pulpwood, we had the added challenge of watching out for stray logs which could cause havoc with our canoes as we began our five miles of paddling to the overnight campsite. Many thrilling moments followed as we headed downstream at a fast pace between frequent rocks and logs. The boys, all experienced still-water paddlers, soon learned to follow Nick's canoe and to take direction from Jack and me during exciting minutes in the rapids. An added diversion was the taking of camp movies of our adventure by Tony Hirsch.

With the campsite established and the beginnings of dinner prepared, a group headed for a nearby stream and waterfall for an afternoon dip. When Nick's expertly prepared meal of hamburgers, potatoes, corn, cocoa, etc. was well consumed and our outdoor kitchen cleaned up, the boys were eager to practice their technique of shooting rapids above our inlet. Jack Welton and I life-guarded while Bates and Nick scouted our course for the following day.

With the river low the next morning due to the conservation of river water for log flows during the remainder of the daylight hours, we were at first uncertain of our paddling route. A lesson in canoe repair was provided by Bates until eleven o'clock when the river was again high enough for more rapids-shooting into a still lake area, middlemen a chance to paddle. With the exception of a on the rocks, necessitating a few wet feet to shove off, the second day's venture was highly successful. By one o'clock we were at Bates' pick-up point with the Buggy and canoe trailer. A lunch and a stop at a Dairy Queen saw us through until our late afternoon arrival at Kawanhee.

E. HAMBLIN

The group bound for the second trip down the log-infested Kennebec River rolled out of camp on Thursday morning, August 11th. Fifteen more fellows from the older lodges were anticipating a new and thrilling experience in canoeing down the rough and tumbling river. Campers R. Evans, W. Hartog, D. Savage, W. Park, J. Mogabgab, H. Eskesen, B. Newman, C. Compher, R. Vockel, R. Shepard, D. O'Hare, R. McCandless, D. Roth, W. Turnbull and H. Cory were accompanied by trip leaders Clarence Bateman and Jack Welton and their assistants, Gene Cayten and Bob Guthrie.

After a long ride to find a good position on the river, the group eagerly consumed a trip lunch and made ready to launch the canoes into the fast water. Before embarking, Jack Welton gave a lecture on river canoeing and the methods of handling its hazards. The group then paddled down the river for several hours, encountering some stimulating challenges, such as hurtling down rapids between rock shelves and pushing through logs floating to the saw-mill.

After speeding past the campsite in a gush of rolling water, the canoes were beached and loaded on the truck to be returned to the camping area where they were unloaded. Many of the boys were beginning to realize that the trip would be a challenge to physical stamina and strength as well as skill. They were ready for a dip in a nearby chilling mountain stream and an assault on the food supply.

The second day of the trip consisted of traveling to a hitherto untried portion of the river for a long eight-mile paddle. The water was relatively calm and required rigorous muscular effort. After the trip was completed, some of the boys were ready to describe it as a body-building course.

Rod-and-Reel Fans Fish Trout Streams

The East Branch of Swift River has seen considerable action on the part of the Kawanhee Fishing Department of late. On Sunday afternoon, August 7th, Pete Schofield and John Bobb under the supervision of eight young fishermen left camp in the pick-up truck and headed around Tumble-down for the trout streams. The boys split up into two groups and, after three hours, returned to camp with eighteen nice brook trout for breakfast.

Tuesday morning a picnic lunch was prepared and at 11:00 A. M., eight more boys along with the same two counselors headed for the East Branch. After a lunch hour at scenic Coos Canyon, the trip headed back up the dirt road to the fishing area and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in doing what 'most any boy loves to do, just fishin'. On that day the Kawanhee fishermen netted another good catch, and again returned to camp a happy bunch.

Pleased with the results of these two trips and knowing that a state law would close all brooks and streams to fishing on August 15th, the fishing counselors decided to take a final group of boys on the brooks on Thursday, August 11th. Lunch was eaten at the beautiful picnic area at Hills Pond near Mt. Bald on the Wilton road, and shortly thereafter the boys were stationed at various trout holes in the area. A funny thing, however, happened that day. Evidently the brook trout have some system of communication which works over long distances, for the boys fished all afternoon but did not catch anything worth keeping. The fish on the East Branch of Swift River must somehow have contacted the fish between Weld and Wilton to tell them that those Kawanhee boys were on the brooks again and to watch out.

Nature Trips Seek Minerals and Insects

Field trips added up to a major item on the Nature Department's program for the week. Monday, August 8th, Forrest Dexter took ten campers from assorted lodges to Newry, Maine, to spend the afternoon exploring the quarries on Mt. Plumbago. There as many as twenty-two different minerals were to be found: Muscovite mica; yellow lithium mica; spodumene; feldspar; cleveandite; blue, pink, white, brown, black, green, cucumber and watermelon tourmalines; purple lepidolite; smokey, clear and white quartz; staurolite; columbite; triphylite; chlorite; and antenite. The expedition was topped off with a visit to Perham's Mineral Shop to inspect the extensive mineral exhibits and to purchase a few specimens not to be found at the quarries. The mineralogists ate supper by the roadside before returning to Kawanhee in the evening.

A similar trip filled Friday morning and afternoon, with lunch out, for ten Hawks and Pine Trees accompanied by Mr. Dexter and Fred Hoster. Kawanhee's entomologists also took to the field that morning. Miss Baker convoyed Pete Woodward, who has assembled the largest insect display of the summer, and several other enthusiastic collectors to the meadows between Weld and Dummer's Beach. They put in a busy morning with the nets and returned with well filled specimen bottles.

On home grounds Nature activity continued in full swing, with J. Kordulak making his mark as the year's first Junior B, and R. Bell as the first Junior A, to complete all three levels in one season. The only frustrated naturalists of the week were Dan Spivey's hopeful astronomers when nights either too chilly or too cloudy repeatedly postponed that threatened star hike.

Sox Break Tie for Little League Crown

The Kawanhee Little League concluded its official 1960 schedule with a two-way tie for the championship between the Red Sox and the Blue Blades. The Sox came from behind to win two out of three games in the last week of play, while the best the Blades could do was one out of two.

The Red Sox weathered a heavy schedule early in the week. On August 8th they downed the Blue Blades 6-3, and on August 9th they trounced the Green Thunderbirds 10-2. The next day, however, they were defeated 9-5 by the resurging T-Birds.

Friday, August 12th, the Blue Blades defeated the Green Thunderbirds 3-1 in a well played defensive game. Tom Fischgrund pitched the complete ball game for the Blades and gave up two hits, striking out six and walking one. The hitting star was Bruce Beal who tripled, doubled and scored a run for the victors. The game was highlighted by the fine fielding of Charlie Dawes in center field for the Blades. With the score deadlocked at 1-1 in the bottom of the fifth and no outs, Chuck Park of the Blue Blades crossed the plate with the winning tally, after singling and stealing two bases.

The Red Sox finally won undisputed possession of the Little League crown by defeating the Blades 10-3 in the play-off game of Sunday, August 14th. W. Lawrence was the winning pitcher and C. DelValle, with three for three, was the batting star of the Sox. T. Fischgrund pitched for the Blue Blades, while that team's T. Ferguson had the day's longest hit, a triple.

The Little League's final standings are:

	W	L	Runs	OppR	Pct.
Red Sox	8	5	85	77	.615
Blue Blades	7	6	81	89	.538
Green Thunderbirds	4	8	41	51	.333

The Apaches moved farther into the lead of the Midget Softball League as they won a regularly scheduled contest with the Mohawks, 4-3, Friday evening, August 12th. Earlier the Chippewas were defeated by both the Apaches and the Mohawks but, in the absence of various league officials on trips, the scores were not recorded. The standings of the league therefore survive only in the following incomplete state:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Apaches	5	1	.833
Chippewas	2	4	.333
Mohawks	2	4	.333

Maroons Swamp Greys in Water Meet

The Maroons inflicted a decisive 96-68 defeat on the usually up-and-coming Grey aquatic contingent at the water meet of Saturday, August 13th. The afternoon, with a warm mist hanging over the mountains, was lackadaisical, but not so the Maroon mermen nor, indeed, their cheering section, which kept the pines vibrating with the chant of "Go, Maroons" and at one time even set forth the message visually on the bumptious bosoms of nine lined-up stalwarts.

The Greys started well, for their customary command of the Cross Country Relay was not shaken by the way-out expedient of running the event backwards. This "backwardness", incidentally, merely reversed the order of the laps and did not, to the audible disappointment of some spectators, require the canoeists to backwater across the cove or the runners to sprint in hind-side-to. This hopeful lead was quickly squelched by the Maroons, who placed strong lunged D. Schirmer first in the Balloon Blow and W. Doyle in the Junior B Freestyle. The Greys bobbed up once more to a four-point lead when J. Holden and D. Bittenbender came in one-two in the Senior Canoe Singles, but firsts and seconds for the Maroons in the next two races gave them a stranglehold on the score which could not be loosened even by Grey victories in both relays. The Senior Medley Relay produced some of the most spectacular swimming of the day when D. Brunton in the second lap surged from far behind with his powerful breaststroke to save the race for the Greys. The Canoe Bobbing clinched the meet for the Maroons by putting them 18 points in the lead. A slight, but ruinous, crosswind bedeviled this race with the result that only two men, both Maroons, managed to teeter up to the finish line, while the other entries, valiantly pumping, drifted ever seaward, possibly to place in the concurrent Tech Dinghy regatta.

The Juniors took over the concluding water polo game, and a spirited battle they made of it! In the first period, played by Junior B Cubs, P. Green and J. Wells spearheaded an irresistible Maroon attack which knocked off four goals in rapid-fire order. The second period, contested by Junior B teams, saw the Greys come back to score the only goal. This game, and Tony Hirsch's exhibition of expert water-skiing during the intermission, drew the program's loudest rounds of applause from the gallery.

The Summary:
BACKWARDS CROSS COUNTRY RELAY—Winner: Grey Team (D. Hoch, Captain; D. Savage, W. Hartog, Junior A's; B. Birch, Junior B; D. Brunton, Senior; P. Sullivan, Junior B Cub).
JUNIOR B CUB BALLOON-BLOW RACE—First: D. Schirmer (M); Second: P. Green (M); Third: B. Davis (G).

JUNIOR B FREESTYLE RACE—First: W. Doyle (M); Second: R. Yantes (G); Third: D. Gordon (M).
SENIOR CANOE SINGLES RACE—First: J. Holden (G); Second: D. Bittenbender (G); Third: B. Connor (M).
JUNIOR A BREASTSTROKE RACE—First: H. Ticknor (M); Second: R. Larcomb (M); Third: R. Vockel (G).
JUNIOR B CUB KICKBOARD RACE—First: P. Green (M); Second: G. Heindel (M); Third: W. Dargusch (G).
JUNIOR B SIDESTROKE RACE—First: R. Yantes (G); Second: tie, W. Doyle (M), W. Matchneer (M).
SENIOR MEDLEY RELAY—Winner: Grey Team (D. Holden, D. Brunton, T. Hirsch).

Week Features Tournaments and Regatta

Tournaments, as well as trips, games and meets, came in for special attention in the course of the week. The wrestling matches progressed through most of the semifinals, while day after day Wade Rockafellow reminded this pair of tennis players or that of the way to the courts. In breezy weather or calm the sails of the Kawanhee Yacht Club were to be seen on the lake, moving through the picturesque, but to the landlubber ever-baffling, maneuvers of the big annual sailing regatta. The four preliminary rounds were completed by Saturday, with the semifinals and finals still to be sailed. Time out from such serious concerns allowed the whole camp two uproarious evenings Tuesday and Wednesday with the movie The Golden Age of Comedy. Visitors came and visitors went, and among them the Wigwam was lucky enough to note: Jere Meserole, a well remembered camper of the Thirties; Jack Meldrum, a member of the staff in 1940, and Steve and Dave Hall, campers of more recent vintage. On Saturday Ben Bennett, having completed his summer's advanced course in Mathematics at the University of Delaware, was welcomed back to Kawanhee and to his customary place in the high command of the Shop. His son Russ, a former Kawanhee camper, joined Ben here for the week end.

The Saturday evening campfire opened with a colorful Indian fire dance performed by Fred Johnson, supported by Roy Welton on the tom-tom. The reports on levels and awards were as notable for quality as for quantity, including as they did the announcement of the year's new Life-savers, the Silverbow Archer award for Tom Patton, and the National Rifle Association's top medal, Expert Rifleman, for Bob Angerer and Jean Dexter, one of the younger members of Kawanhee's Ladies' Auxiliary. To conclude the evening, Dean Miller summarily nailed down the lid on his continued story.

Sunday morning found Kawanhee's campers, counselors and numerous guests gathered in the chapel on the shore to hear Dean Miller deliver a sermon based on the story of the Fiery Furnace. Afternoon brought the play-off game in the hotly contested Little League and the departure of the first group, composed of the Eagles, Falcons and Panthers, for the Outpost Camp on Swift River. The day ended in the Recreation Hall with a Vesper meeting which featured the Choir and a short film dealing with "Resuscitation".

Only one more number of the Wigwam remains to be published this summer. Its appearance, however, will be somewhat tardy, since it must record the final score, the annual awards, and much other vital information which will not be available until the closing exercises on August 24th. As soon thereafter as the last point and level can be rounded up, processed and printed, 1960's concluding Wigwam will be mailed to all its regular readers.
