Maroons Fatten Lead with Water Meet Win

The Maroons were in the lead and picking up momentum as the two teams rounded the mid-season mark. At the campfire of Saturday, July 29, the score stood: Maroons, 2,992; Greys, 2,603. This increased the Maroons' margin of advantage to 389 points. The previous Saturday the score, as announced, had credited them with a lead of 242 points. They had picked up 25 more when a check of that report discovered the omission of the standard bonus for their victory in the water meet of July 22. The remaining 122 points represented the Maroons' actual gain over the Greys in the course of the week.

It was another water meet which accounted for almost all of that gain. On Saturday, July 29, the Maroons scored a resounding aquatic victory of 146 to 54 over the Greys which, with the 25-point winners' bonus, netted the Maroons an advantage of 117 for the afternoon. On the Achievement Level charts, the week showed only a 5-point difference between the two teams. Maroons had completed forty-six levels worth 970, while various Greys had polished off forty-three valued at 965 points. Such a near-balance in the vital matter of levels is most unusual. It is not likely, once the levels start rolling in, that any future sports event will play so decisive a part in a weekly score, nor is it probable that water meets will determine the final victory.

Achievement Level reports, to date, have been relatively light. The somewhat less than ideal weather has certainly contributed to this state of affairs, as has the increasing tendency of such level-rich departments as Athletics, Swimming, and Tennis to prolong and consolidate the first phase of instruction before passing any tests for levels. According to the latest advices, these activities are now all set to start cashing in on preliminary work and, in another week, growing lists of levels may reveal more significant clues to the complexion of the final score.

Strays from 1960 Staff Hitting the Books

Once a Kawanhee season is smoothly under way, the old-timers find themselves noticing the absence of a familiar face here or the missing echo of an unforgettable voice there, and inevitably there arises the query, "How come good old Joe Doaks didn't come back? Wonder what he's doing this summer!" In response the Wigwam customarily attempts to patch together, out of such snippets of first-hand information and rumor as are available, a column accounting at least for the whereabouts and activities of the previous summer's Senior Counselors and Junior Counselors who have failed to rejoin the Kawanhee tribe.

This summer Ohio State University seems to have more than its usual Kawanhee contingent. Dave Angerer is boning up on Physics and German in preparation for his Physical Chemistry course in the fall. Ben Bennett is continuing his studies in Higher Mathematics but will, as last year, spend the final two weeks of the camp season in Kawanhee assisting in his old standby, the Shop. After finishing his Junior year at Ohio Wesleyan, Tony Hirsch is taking further work this summer at Ohio State. Bill Keating, continuing his studies on the rough road of Pre-Med, is now catching up with a course in Anatomy. John and Lydia Detrick along with their four-month old daughter, LuAnn, are spending their summer around Columbus while John takes advantage of a scholarship awarded by the National Science Foundation. Staying in Columbus, too, is the Spivey family which now includes a son, Steven, six-months old. Dan is earning further credits in School Administration for his Master's Degree in Education.

Congratulations are also in order for Lee and Gardner Defoe on the arrival of a baby boy six weeks ago. Gardner is spending the summer on Birch Island in Holeb Pond near Jackman Station, Maine, where he is developing a trip camp.

Those branching out geographically include Dave Malery who is now in the Air Force and is stationed at Goodfellow Air Force Base, Texas. Various reports have filtered in about John Fulda. One is that he is attending a Quaker Friends' camp out West. The other is that he is attending summer school. In either case it seems that he plans to visit Kawanhee before the end of the summer. John Bobb is playing the tourist at present, taking in the sights in Europe.

Among those remaining at home this summer is Bob Duffey who is, according to one report, painting his home in Columbus as he continues to recover from a recent operation. Clay Davenport is staying in Manhasset where it is understood he has a job at a day camp. Bob Guthrie is visiting his new home in California where his family is again located. Bob, however, will carry on his schooling at Amherst in the fall. Fred Hoster has been working at a Columbus swimming pool but has decided to join the Kawanhee staff for the month of August.

New Docks and Gardens Embellish Camp

The week's weather continued to be variegated—only more so! The good, as represented by two full days of "real Maine weather", brisk, bright and windy, which Kawanhee enjoyed on Wednesday and Thursday, was certainly better than most that the elements have dished out to the 1961 season, and the bad was a bit rougher, particularly the rip-snorting thunder showers which hit these parts late Tuesday. With the storm rumbling up and down the valley that evening, the camp was quite content to take refuge in the Recreation Hall for the second installment of the week's movie, The Prince and the Pauper with Errol Flynn. The level of the lake rose noticeably the next morning and, in the days immediately following, the little dock remained all but awash and anchored down with boulders, its land end barely touching the beach. No matter what the weather, the Birch Lodge members continued to push their ambitious new dock out into the lake. Were the time of their building not limited by the length of the season, it might eventually become necessary to install a drawbridge section in their ever lengthening pier to allow a continuation of lake swims. A far greater improvement to the camp and a great source of pleasure to all was the handsome floral border which recently appeared along the side of a much frequented, but hitherto strictly utilitarian, building crowning the hill in back of the Main Lodge. If Ed should keep on with his admirable landscaping project, the place might well lose its time-honored name of The Fort and come to be known as Redfield's Gardens.

Juniors Explore Cataracts at Andover

The Eagles and Falcons pioneered a new trip on Thursday, July 27, when with Forrest Dexter, Jack Welton, and Clarence Bower they explored the cataracts on the Appalachian Trail near Andover, Maine. From the point where they were deposited by their automotive transport that morning, they climbed half a mile up the side of Baldpate Mountain and then changed quickly into bathing trunks to explore the pools and cascades of the East Branch of Frye Brook. The plunge basins proved to be ideal playgrounds, suitably shallow at one end for wading and deep enough at the other to allow the more adventurous to dive. Other attractions were provided in the form of a fine icy shower bath in the spray of the falls and a natural slide in the flowing water down a moss-covered rock into the pool. Picnic lunch was effectively demolished by the falls. The early hours of the afternoon were spent in hiking further up the stream and in more dips and plunges in the pools. The trip was so thoroughly enjoyed that it bids fair to become an annual feature of the Junior B Cub program.

Thursday produced another venture into relatively unfamiliar territory, a fishing expedition to the head waters of the Swift River behind Tumbledown. Pete Schofield and Ken Reilly led six campers on the stiff hike, six miles in and six miles out. The fishing proved to be rewarding, for many small brook trout were landed and twelve large enough for "keepers" were brought back to camp.

Earlier in the week, on Monday, July 24, Mr. Dexter and Mr. Bower, assisted by Pete Woodward, convoyed the campers of the Hawk and Lynx lodges on the regular mineral trip to the quarries at Newry and to Perham's Maine Mineral Shop in West Paris. Specimens of twenty-five or thirty minerals were found, including the usual tourmalines, quartzes, feldspars, and micas. An unexpected feature of the trip was the opportunity of observing members of the U. S. Geological Survey making core drills on Plumbago Mountain near the mines.

Former Campers and Counselors Visit Camp

Mid-season produced a slight shift in the camp population. Kawanhee regretfully bade farewell to P. Adriance, L. Valk and W. Watson as they departed to spend the remainder of the summer with their families. Simultaneously the reappearance of three of last summer's campers was welcomed. C. Matheson and R. Matheson returned to claim bunks in the Birch and Wildcat lodges respectively, and Phil Green, 1960's High Point Winner, arrived to reinforce the Pine Trees and the Maroons.

The week was also favored by the visits of numerous gentlemen well remembered in Kawanhee. Harris Adriance, a camper of the late 1920's, arrived to pick up his son Peter, and Alan Estabrook, a veteran of the 'Thirties, stopped briefly in camp on Saturday to see two nephews who are current members of the Kawanhee tribe. Schuyler Van Ingen, who appears to have shifted his allegiance to Kineowatha, with Mrs. Van Ingen and their two younger daughters, for several days used the Inn as a base for a visit with their two elder daughters in the girls' camp in Wilton. Tom Cayten, a Junior Counselor in 1958, joined his brother Gene in camp for the week end. Sunday saw the reactivation of the cottage of out-house red with the egg-crate window on Center Hill when Dr. and Mrs. Fred-eric Heimberger of Ohio State University reached their summer home for a month's stay.

Most notable was a distinguished gathering of former Maroon captains — and winning ones, at that! Hicks Lawrence, who led the team to victory in 1934, attended the water meet with Mrs. Lawrence and son Terry, a former camper of much more recent vintage, to watch younger son Bill win the Junior A Sidestroke. The previous day had brought the successful 1936 Maroon Captain, Reid Murphy, and his family back for another vacation on Pine Point. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sullivan checked in at the Inn for a visit with their triplet sons, Bill, Jeff and Pete, who account for much of the life in three Junior B lodges this year. Warren was the chief of the Maroons in their 1939 upset triumph.

Two other former Maroon captains were on hand earlier for the beginning of the season. Bill Myers of the 1938 team spent a week at the Myers family summer home while son Clark began his first Kawanhee summer in the Eagle Lodge. Frank Henry, too, with Mrs. Henry and their younger children were among those present at the launching of a second Frank Henry on a camp career which has already demonstrated the family affinity for Sailing. Frank the First was a member of the Kawanhee tribe from 1936 through 1942, serving as head of the Maroons in 1940. It may be wondered whether the reappearance of all this Maroon ex-brass may not be effecting the current score. It is about time for some former Grey bigwigs to show up and do a little inspiring.

The present Maroon Captain's father, David Beggs, and Mrs. Beggs have already paid two visits to Kawanhee to cheer Dan along his winning way. Dave's own years as a camper here date back to the 1920's. Other past campers and present parents who joined the Inn-mates briefly during the month were John Langer and Al Brady. Leroy Copeland recently spent a few days here recalling his camping activities in 1953 and 1956. A more lengthy absence was terminated when Professor Wallace Boyce of Colorado College, Colorado Springs, with Mrs. Boyce, their four daughters and son, Campbell, stopped by one day for lunch. Wally was a camper and Junior Counselor in the late 'Twenties and early 'Thirties.

Happily several gentlemen firmly established in Kawanhee annals have made, or are making, more extended stays in the Webb Lake Valley. At the Myers cabin near the Inn, Hal and his family spent the month of July, with Hal putting in his traditional and ever welcome appearances at the camp pulpit, and the camp drums. Just around the Point, Bob Cory and his family are once more at their summer home on the beach. From time to time during the month Rod Alexander was to be seen on the lake water-skiing from his base with his parents at the Tulloss cottages up the shore. Most pleasing of all is the knowl-edge that Howell Windle, Kawanhee's long-time Range Master, and Mr. H. C. Marshall, The Chief whose camp at fame will never dwindle, are as usual at their camps at the head of the lake.

Hornets Sting Magics, Bears Bite Them

In the Little League the luckless Green Hornets snapped their three-game losing streak Friday, July 28, by soundly trouncing the Black Magics, 15-1. The highlight of the three-inning battle was the brilliant pitching of the Hornets' Diego Del Valle who struck out nine of the opposition, accounting for every out which the Magics suffered. He also contributed three hits to the Hornets' stinging attack. Dickie Davis had the only safety for the Magics and scored their only run. The victory was the Hornets' first in four games and it appears from their spirit that it won't be their last.

In other Little League action of the week, the Red Bears defeated the Black Magics 11-3 on July 26. Fast-balling Tom Cookman struck out four Magics, while Lansing Valk had two hits and scored two runs. For the Magics Rocky Heindel scored two runs and had a solid hit.

By courtesy of the weather, the Blue Blades continued to enjoy the league's top spot. For the second week in a row, their playing schedule was washed out, leaving them playless in possession of a meager but perfect 1-and-0 record, while the other teams continued to battle for secondary positions in the ratings. In the weeks to come the Blades must face a formidable array of make-up games in defense of the honors so easily earned to date.

In the one Senior League baseball game of the week, Chuck Compher pitched his Chuckles to a no-hit victory over Shepard's under-manned Satans. Derek Savage led the Chuckles in the 4-0 victory with two hits. Little can be said for the Satans except that they would have made a better showing had more of their regular players been available for the game.

In the only game of Senior basketball played in the course of the week Shepard's Satans defeated Connor's Albatrosses 29-18. Captain Ross Shepard scored 19 points for the victors while John Hays contributed 6. Perry Newton and Marcos Ramirez each scored 4 for the losers.

Minstrel Show Staged by Jordan

The Kawanhee Dramatics Society presented its third Friday evening program, July 28, in the form of a Minstrel Show.

During a striking drum roll the Kawanhee Chorus entered the Recreation Hall to sing a medley which included Kawanhee Minstrel Show, Down Yonder, and I'm Goin' South. Interlocutor Dick Jordan welcomed the inevitable black-face endmen who were recognized as "Sickly" Savage, "Naughty" Newton, "Messy" Meserole, and "Gruesome" Glidden. Periodically throughout the performance they broadcast jokes from one side of the stage to the other. Tim Dargusch appeared from time to time, in what is called the running gag, announcing the coming of the "Viper" who turned out to be Bill Doyle stating: "I'm the Viper—I vipe the vindows."

Among the specialty acts Bruce Leiper appeared as ventriloquist with Fred Rowe as the smiling dummy perched on his lap. The Kingston Trio, composed of Dick Jordan, Clay Stites, and Wade Rockafellow, returned to the stage to sing Michael, Three Jolly Coachmen, and Merry Minuet. Andy Smith as teacher provided a skit entitled "Drum Lesson" with Charles Beck as the student and Tom Nevai as his mother. In Huntley-Brinkley style Jon Hively and Tom Taylor relayed such current news items as the progress of the pyramids and Washington's crossing of the Delaware. Additional medleys by the Kawanhee Chorus rounded out the program.

Maroons Swamp Greys in Water Meet

The Maroons defeated the Greys, 146 to 54, in the water meet of Saturday afternoon, July 29. Beginning auspiciously with the Cross Country Relay when Chuck Compther foiled the strong bid of Grey swimmer Perry Newton to cross the finish line first, the Maroons went on, with the capture of eight first places, eight seconds, and four thirds in succeeding events, to score their decisive victory before a large gallery gathered somewhat uneasily on the beach under grey skies.

Suspense was somewhat lacking in the first half of the program as odds-on favorites like Maroons Bob Bierke, Ross Shepard, and Warren Acker finished far in advance of their competition in the Junior B Backstroke, the Senior Freestyle, and the Junior B Cub Dock Swim respectively. The Junior A Lifesavers' Side-stroke, on the other hand, was a nip-and-tuck battle between winner Bill Lawrence and Dean Yantes, who came in only a stroke apart lengths ahead of the field. The season's first boating race, the Senior Canoe Doubles, also had the spectators guessing, for the course headed straight in to the beach, and it was not until the canoes entered the swimming area that the strong lead of C. Compther and J. Weisheimer became apparent. It remained for the relay races, bunched in the second half of the program, really to raise excitement to concert pitch. Moments of particular tension were supplied by the last lap battle for second place in the Junior A Medley and Phil Green's second lap recovery of lost ground for the winning trio in the Junior B Freestyle. The most loudly cheered win of the day was the remarkable performance of the Dargusch brothers in the Junior B Cub Pajama Relay.

The Greys nailed down a couple of sure-fire first places of their own with Tim Hirsch, who had an easy four lengths to spare at the end of the Senior Breast-stroke, and with Fred Rowe, whose winning bid in the Junior B Underwater Swim took him the full width of the swimming area and a quarter of the way back. By all odds the Greys' best showing of the day was their hard-won victory in the final event, the water polo game played by teams of eight Junior A's plus the team captains. The Maroons opened the game with a quickly scored first point. Then the Greys dug in. Four times at least they warded off an apparently inevitable second Maroon score at the big dock before Boothby, gaining possession of the ball in mid pool, dodged Maroon after Maroon to score for the Greys at the little dock. Heartened by this, the Greys held off their rivals until another hard won Grey point was scored, giving the Greys a morale-saving 2-1 victory in the climactic contest of the day.

The interlude between the two halves of the competitive program was devoted to a neat demonstration of the canoe-over-canoe rescue by Dean Yantes and Chuck McGee, and to a spectacular display of slalom water-skiing by Fred Ross.

The Summary:

CROSS COUNTRY RELAY—Winner: Maroon team (A. Doyle, Jr. B Cub; J. MacDonald, Jr. B; L. Brainard, Jr. A; C. Compther, Sr.).

JUNIOR A WATER POLO GAME—Winner (2-1): Grey team.

Saturday and Sunday Events

The Recreation Hall was the scene of the Saturday night campfire. Features of the occasion were a spirited rendition of The Old Lady Who Swallowed a Fly led by Bob Elliott, Pete Schofield and a select group, and Ned Seibert's report on the Junior Maine Guide encampment at Bemis from which he and the five candidates had returned that afternoon. Dean Miller concluded the evening with his story, The Knights of the Silver Shield.

The Sunday morning church service was held on the shore on Council Point. Dave Ferguson gave the morning prayer, and Ken Reilly and Ed Hamblin read passages of Scripture from Joshua and Isaiah. Dean Miller spoke of The Highway of the King, "the lonesome road, the path to Mt. Zion, the mountain trail that leads to the top." The choir's offering was Jesus Walked this Lonesome Valley.

The day ended with the usual assembly in the Recreation Hall. The music consisted of America the Beautiful, Do, Lord by the Choir, and a vigorous attack on Allouette conducted by Ken Reilly. After the Dean's evening prayer, an exciting reel from the Ford Motor Company, The River of No Return, was shown.
