Maroons Sweep Week, Greys Still On Top

Suspense and tension mounted at the Saturday night campfire, August 5th, as chief scribe, Del Tracy, announced that some 5800 points had been earned during the week. The Maroons received an added spark of encouragement when Del asked the O'BRIEN-TRACY MAROONS to sing "HANG DOWN YOUR HEAD FRANK WATSON AND CRY" to the tune of Tom Dooley; however, when he, in turn, called upon the WATSON-WHITMYRE GREYS to sing "HANG DOWN YOUR HEAD MIKE O'BRIEN AND CRY", he added mystery to the suspense and tension.

When Del finally read the score, both teams were provided with a genuine cause for cheering. It indicated that the complexion of the score had altered radically and it displayed a distinct Maroon blush, as they had leaped forward and taken a larger bite out of the Grey's advantage by outscoring their rivals during the week by 350 points.

The score also indicated that the Greys had been dragging their feet somewhat, but moving at a fast enough pace to save part of their overall lead and stay out in front by some 244 points when the total score for the season had been recorded. The Greys had a total score of 8294 to the Maroon's 8050.

The Maroons, jubilant over their week's victory and their closing the gap by some 400 points, gave their rivals a tremendous victory cheer that indicated, "Beware, Greys, we are on the move!" The Greys, a little stunned by the Maroon onslaught, cheered themselves indicating that they were still in the race with no if's, and's or but's.

It is anyone's race as the next two weeks score will no doubt triple as the many second and third levels begin to roll in. Whether it be a continuous Grey victory or an upset Maroon victory, it has been a good race and good sportsmanship has been displayed throughout the competition. With this kind of sportsmanship and the tremendous team spirit of both the Greys and the Maroons, Kawanhee will have two winning teams when the total scores are recorded for the year. Anyone can be a good winner, but it takes courage to be a good loser. Win or lose, it is how you play the game that really counts.

Maroons Win First Track Meet

The Maroons enjoy the feeling of success and have leaped forward during the week to be top team on the totem pole for the week's scoring as well as taking the first track meet of the season. However, they must first overcome the 244 point lead enjoyed by the Greys in the total score before they can claim top team on the totem pole for the season.

DAN GREENING — TOM HARTMAN

First Wrestling Tournament

Tom Hartman and Dan Greening of the Wrestling Department have really been busy this summer teaching Kawanee campers to be expert wrestlers. More boys have been interested in wrestling this year than ever before which speaks well for the men in charge.

To prepare the boys for the big tournament of the year, they held a "warm up" tournament this past week. The results are as follows:

Water Skiing Department Performs

The water skiing department gave an excellent performance as the special event for the week's water meet.

Mike O'Brien exhibited his skill at slalom skiing, Jim Proctor performed on the short-skis and Scott Tracy glided over the water on the saucer, performing turns enroute. Brad Coley and Phil Drake, 10-year-olds, and new skiers this year, showed excellent form as they double skied, crisscrossing several times enroute.

Jeff Coley, an 8-year-old, not to be outdone by his brother, got up on skis for the first time during the exhibition. He went several yards before deciding that he would rather swim for awhile.

The water skiing department has certainly lived up to their name of TOP this summer. They have never been too busy to help anyone in camp try their skill at skiing. They boast 35 new skiers for the season to date and they hope to have every boy in camp skiing before the season closes. They even boast a mother or two on their list of new skiers.

Counselors Can Do!

During the track meet of August 5th, five counselors climbed aboard a certain red "Jeep" and headed for the Chimney Trail on Tumbledown. The trip was made in two hours, due to the get-up-and-go of one of the counselors. Following a short rest at the summit of the mountain, we proceeded down the Loop Trail, which more or less was a stream due to constant rain in the area. The trip down was hampered by a slight knee injury.

We arrived in camp in time for campfire. The counselors who climbed were: Mike Altmaier, Fred "Cheta" Ball, Chuck Hoffhine, John Staker and Doug Means.

Chain-of-Ponds Trip

After a gallant effort by members of the Boating Department, Frank Stewart and the kitchen staff, the Chain-of-Ponds canoe trip left camp on Wednesday, August 2nd, under the direction of Mitch Greenawalt, Doug Means and Tom Ruhle.

The route to the Ponds follows the trail used by Benedict Arnold when he marched to Quebec. We stopped for a picnic lunch at Cathedral Pines, one of Arnold's campsites. We eventually skidded to a stop at Natanis Campsite, loaded our equipment into the canoes and paddled across the upper pond to our campsite. After the tents were up, the boys were sent to collect firewood and they soon brought in enough to stoke the fire for our entire stay. After a delicious hamburger steak supper and some exploratory paddling, the boys bedded down for the night.

After breakfast and clean-up the next morning, we packed a lunch and prepared to canoe down the lakes. As we rounded the point, we were hit by a terrific headwind against which we could make no headway. A quick change of plans was effected as we headed up the Horse-shoe River instead. This stream is full of twists and turns, beaver dams, fallen trees, sunken logs and other obstructions which make it a true canoeing challenge. We finally had to halt after several hours of paddling as the stream became too shallow and obstructed to keep the boats going. After eating lunch on a hillside, we made the return trip downstream in record time, pausing long enough, however, to observe a baby fawn hiding in the grass along the edge of the stream.

Since we were canoeing in a drizzle and had also had to get wet to get the canoes over several of the dams, we all changed to dry clothes upon our return to camp, had hot chocolate and had a rest hour. In the later afternoon, the sun broke through so everyone went swimming or exploring.

After a supper of hamburger stew, we explored another stream but soon had to turn back when we found the channel impassable. Everyone turned in early after a busy day of paddling.

The lakes were still rough on Friday morning, so after cleaning up the campsite and packing our gear, the group hiked along the lakes to the site of the Megantic Hunt and Fish Club. We wandered through the area and were impressed with the elaborate lodges maintained not only by individuals, but also by companies such as J. J. Newberry.

This was a day for spotting wildlife. We first discovered two field mice in our food containers when we got up. We later saw a family of ducks and a family of loons as we hiked.

When Bates and Glenn Schroeder arrived, we had a quick lunch and then loaded up for a quick run across the border to Canada. While we were gone, Mitch and Glenn stayed behind to strike the tents. When the truck returned, Mitch and Glenn were huddled under the canoe trailer protecting themselves from a driving rain. The truck and trailer were loaded in the rain and we then headed for camp by way of Rangeley where we stopped for supper. At the edge of Rangeley, several of us were lucky enough to spot a half-grown black bear before he disappeared into the woods. We arrived in camp at 7:30 p.m., tired, damp and happy over a successful trip.

The group on the trip was composed of Duke Karr, Randy Potts, Barry Gidman, Steve Aeschbach, Kevin Smith, Rafael Gonzales, Jim Keny, Tim Keny, Andy Keintz, Jorge Suarez, Jet Tremble, Tim Williams, Paul Doege, Mark Sengemann and Doug Smith.

Macks Pull Away, Drench Knights

August opened this season as July closed, very wet and severely handicapping any post-supper contests in either the Little League or the Babe Ruth League. The KLL could only salvage one clear date while the KBRL couldn't get any. The front-running Macks of the Blue met the third-rung Knights in Black in the lone decision of the week. The Macks got by 3-1.

Blue twirler, Pete Haines and Black flipper, Hank Hiser, meeting for the second time this season, took the mound for the night — Haines picking up his third win while Hiser took his third loss.

Haines capped two hits in the game while catcher Phil Drake knocked in two runs for the visitors. Hiser got two hits and Scott Sartorius brought in the lone Knight tally.

After a double three-up, three-down first inning, the Macks loaded the bases in the second inning with two out, but were denied. Up again in the third, the Blue wave rolled over the Blacks for two runs on two walks, one hit and one error. Al Drewes lead off with a walk, Haines followed with his first hit of the night, and Chris Schroeder walked, loading the bases. Phil Drake then laced a liner to second baseman, John Schroeder, who bobbed the ball but managed to throw Drake out. Meanwhile Drewes scored and Haines ran through a red light at third and raced home beating a high throw.

Two and one half scoreless innings rapidly followed with both Hiser and Haines whiffing six apiece and allowing two hits. The Macks flooded the bases in the fifth with a walk and singles by Drake and Haines. But Hiser was up to the situation and fanned the next three batters.

The sixth and final inning saw both clubs score one run. The Macks filled the lanes and tallied their run on a Black error. The Knights pushed their run across on a bases-jammed free pass but fell down dead after that.

Senior Counselors Win Again

The Senior Counselors were once again victorious in the Saturday night encounter with the Junior Counselors. They eked out a 6-4 victory. The Juniors went into a 2-0 lead early in the game but the Seniors tied it up at 2-2. Then with a four run outburst, they iced the game.

The rally featured a home run by Dave Gordon who was an "honorary" senior counselor for the game. The game was outstanding due to the sparkling fielding of Tom Hartman, 3rd sacker for the seniors. Heavy hitting was done by Dick Morton, Frank Stewart and Dave Bohnke.

Several rallies by the juniors were squelched by fielding gems perpetrated by the Senior fielders. Bob Zechiel once again was the losing pitcher for the Juniors but pitched an excellent game.

Safeties were collected by Bob Zechiel, Dan Greening, Scott Tracy and Jim Proctor for the Juniors. Del Tracy was the winning pitcher for the Seniors, for a 3-2 record.

End Of The Fifth Week

The weather took a couple of half-hearted swipes at the week's activities but did not hinder many of the programs planned for the week. It did cause the tennis and athletic departments a bit of a handicap. They are thinking about introducing "splash tennis" and "slosh ball" if the monsoon season doesn't end soon. However, the weather manages to clear by the weekend, allowing our usual weekend programs.

Our campfire of Saturday, August 5th, was held on Council Point for the fifth straight week. The program of music was furnished by Mitch Greenawalt and the campers in the usual "Deacon" song, with Bill Lawrence furnishing the special music. He sang and played "Long and Dusty Road" and "Got to Hide Your Loving Way". John Willis kept the campers "crawling" with his story entitled, "Bamboo Jungle". An unusually long list of awards took up the rest of the program.

Once again our Sunday worship service was held in our Chapel on the Shore with Rev. Stanley McCleave speaking to the boys on the subject of prayer. "Praying is the means of communicating with God. We communicate with Him by doing the things which we enjoy that are right. God is always with us. Some people say that God is dead, but God is with those people." Mr. Chace read the scripture taken from Matthew and Herb Birch read the prayer of the day. Preston Crabill, a 14-year-old camper in the Wildcat Lodge, sang a solo entitled, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

For the Sunday evening Vesper Services the camp gathered in the Rec Hall for a hootenany. Mike O'Brien and Bill Lawrence accompanied the group on their guitars. Tom Taylor shared with the campers slides that he had taken during his year as an exchange student in Quito, Ecuador. Mitch Greenawalt and the Kawanhee octet supplied the special music and Rev. Stanley McCleave told the campers a short Bible story to conclude the evening. The day itself closed with a truly beautiful sunset.
