Maroons Increase Lead Entering Home Stretch

The week's score was to be seen only through Maroon-colored glasses for the team color seemed to tint everything within sight. During the preceding seven days the Maroons scored 6180 points while the Greys were totting up 5482 points. This provided the Maroons with a margin of 698 points to build up their total lead to 1987. Since this is the last report on the score to be heard before the awards ceremony, Tom Ruhle and his teammates could enter the home stretch with some feeling of confidence. But over confidence could be fatal as Tom told his Maroons; however, their roaring victory cheer sounded as if confidence was mixed with determination to have the Maroons stay on top come August 22nd.

The Greys are not to be counted out of the contest by any means. There are many second and third levels to be earned by them if they wish to make a close race of the summer's activities. If some of the previous years records are to be repeated, victory can still be achieved. With many of the levels still to be awarded, particularly in shop, and the bonuses awarded by the completion of plaques, any positive prediction at this time would be foolhardy. You can be sure that Tim McKee and his Greys will be in there until the end working to overcome their deficit.

The results of the week's work are as follows: Archery, Maroons 295, Greys 270; Athletics, Maroons 710, Greys 540; Boating, Maroons 165, Greys 345; Campercraft, Maroons 645, Greys 465; Nature, Maroons 345, Greys 355; Sailing, Maroons 50, Greys 120; Shop, Maroons 905, Greys 365; Swimming, Maroons 825, Greys 1015; Tennis, Maroons 65, Greys 190; Wrestling, Maroons 1975, Greys 1665. The total score to date is Maroons 15,027½; Greys 13,040½.

Kawanhee "Five" Play For Kineo Dance

Last Friday night, 23 boys and the "Kawanhee Five" boarded the Bouncing Buggy with Chuck Hoffhine at the wheel for Camp Kineowatha for Girls for a dance. This was the fourth and final dance for the two camps for the 1968 season and both the boys and the girls were eagerly awaiting the event.

The band consisting of: Rich Whitmyre, Bill Johnson, John Clausen, Gerard Wheeler and Pete Neilson added a couple of new vocalists during the evening, as Dave Bittenbender and Frank Stewart came forth with great singing when they got the beat. Their dancing wasn't bad either.

Les Newton, sailing master, was in charge of the Kawanhee group and he saw that every boy met a Kineowatha girl and danced during the course of the evening. The boys were perfect gentlemen and the girls were perfect hostesses. Punch and chips were served during the evening.

New Arrival

Ben Bennet can hardly be called a new arrival as he first appeared on the Kawanhee shores some 18 years ago. Ben will lend a helping hand in the shop getting the last minute touches on the projects and painting the service stripes on the paddles. He hails from Columbus, Ohio, where he teaches math at the Ridgeview Jr. High School. When not busy in the shop, you will find him out hunting antiques.

Kineo And Kawanhee Archers Join Forces

Another "Kawanhee First" was accomplished this year. Camp Kineowatha for Girls in Wilton, Maine, and Camp Kawanhee for Boys had their first archery tournament. The Kineowatha Archers are known all over the state of Maine for their high scoring and many first-place trophies.

Phyllis Rath, head of the Archery Department at Kineowatha and John Staker, head of the Archery Department at Kawanhee, decided that instead of having a battle of the sexes, we should have the girls and the boys shoot together on teams and compete with each other. The Kawanhee boys worked hard on their form, accuracy, and consistency for four, long weeks until their big day, August 7.

On August 7th, eighteen enthusiastic boys made their way to Camp Kineowatha's beautiful archery field for a day of sporting fun. The tournament was run in professional form with two boys and two girls at each target making up one team. At each target there was a target captain, two scorers, and one arrow retriever. John Staker was the Field Captain, Miss Rath was the Lady Paramount, and Betsy Liggett was the assistant Lady Paramount. There were 36 boys and girls participating in the tournament, each shooting two rounds or sixty arrows. The final tournament placing was as follows:

ARCHERY TOURNAMENT results

20 YARDS:

1st Place: Doug Allan, Mark Schiewetz and their partners.

2nd Place: Gordon Glidden, Scott McMinn and their partners.

3rd Place: Peter Haines, Lee McCleave and their partners.

4th Place: Luis Benitez, Ken Chapman and their partners.

1st Place: Hank Hiser, Mark Sengelmann and their partners.

2nd Place: Jim Estabrook, Scott Leiper and their partners.

3rd Place: Paul Doege, Bill Williams and their partners.

40 YARDS:

1st Place: Scott Tracy, Bob Zechiel and their partners.

2nd Place: Bob Beach, Jackson Doege and their partners.

After the tournament, ribbons were presented to the participants and then the girls treated the Kawanhee boys to a cookout. Our host provided a menu of cheeseburgers, hot dogs, oranges and some-mores, a special Kineowatha dessert delight. After dinner, we all sat around the campfire and chatted a bit concerning the successful day. We decided that the tournament was so successful that we should start having a Kawanhee-Kineowatha archery tournament every year.

Junior Maine Guide Program

The Campcraft Department, in addition to regular level work, cooperates with the Maine Camp Directors' Association and the State Department of Inland Fisheries and Game in administering the Junior Maine Guide Program. The awards given in this program pertain not only to Kawanhee, but represent state-wide recognition of highest achievement in camping skills. After a month of training under the guidance of Tom Ruhle, himself a Junior Maine Guide, three boys traveled to Bemis, Maine, for the extremely rigorous, four day, Junior Guide examination. These examinations include tests pertaining to survival in the wilderness. Bill Proctor passed the twenty-one tests this year, after beginning the program last summer, and Gerard Wheeler and Preston Crabill passed most of their tests but were invited to return next year for retesting on a few of them. Very seldom does a camper pass the first year.

The Maine Junior Woodsman and Maine Woodsman awards do not require a trip to a special testing camp, but may be awarded by qualified personnel in the home camp. The Kawanhee Campcraft levels are so designed that the requirements for all three "B" levels correspond to those for the Junior Maine Woodsman award and the requirements for all three "A" levels are equivalent to the Woodsman award. Twenty-five campers have qualified for these awards this summer. They are as follows:

Junior Maine Guide: Bill Proctor.

Chain Of Ponds 1968

On August 5 the first trip left Kawanhee for an adventurous 3-day stay on the Chain-O-Ponds near the Canadian border. We stopped at Cathedral Pines in Eustis for hamburgers and arrived in the late afternoon at Natanis Point, our home for the three days. After setting up camp, we enjoyed a delectable meal of mystery meat stew and other wonderful things. The next morning we awoke to a quick breakfast and departed for a day of paddling on the ponds. We fought a stiff head wind and light rain but nevertheless we conquered five of the seven ponds.

Our first stop proved to be very exciting. Bobby Escher found out the hard way that the beach on which we were trying to land was not really sand but muck. After pulling Bobby out, everyone ran wild through the muck and had a good time.

Midway through our paddle, we stopped on an isolated beach for original Kawanhee peanut butter and jelly, jelly and peanut butter sandwiches. We paddled on through the 5th pond but despite pleas from Jim Duffy and Bob Boles to paddle until the ponds dried up, we found it necessary to turn around due to the time and inclement weather. Most of us paddled back but Steve Fink found it easier to sail his canoe and consequently he came in second in a field of six. After a hardy meal, all hands played an exciting game of capture the flag.

On our third and last day, we all slept late and didn't begin breakfast until 9:00 o'clock. By 11:00 everyone had had their fill of Aunt Jahofferduty's world famous pan cakes. After cleanup and packing, we headed up the Horse-Shoe River which penetrates the deep woods of Maine, just a few miles below the Canadian border. We crossed a beaver dam and paddled as far up stream as we could. Our expedition then hustled back to the campsite where we found Bates and the second group. The luncheon menu consisted of PB & J sandwiches and soon after dining, we piled into Bates' Bouncing Buggy and skipped across the Canadian border, a mere six miles from our campsite. We had a big luscious feed in Woburn, Quebec and then we headed back to Natanis Point, to pack and then we left for Kawanhee after three fine days of camping and canoeing.

Second Chain Of Ponds Trip

The second group of Kawanheecans quickly took over. Our provisions were stowed and within the hour all six canoes were on the two ponds adjacent to our camp. Gary Gray was among the first on the pond and soon thereafter returned with his dinner of brook trout and yellow perch. Todd Tremble followed suit with a 12 inch trout. Everyone returned to shore for a quick hot dog and baked bean dinner and soon all canoes were back on the ponds. That evening we sat around a campfire on the beach and enjoyed "Somemores" an Ohio favorite. We made plans for the next day and turned in early.

We awoke to a clear, warm, sunny day. Breakfast was eaten quickly and we were soon on the ponds paddling through the chain. Our party stopped at Muck Beach for a romp and for unknown reasons, Doug Means was almost lost in the muck.

On an island in the 5th pond, we stopped for peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. The next two ponds were covered quickly and we were soon confronted by a small dam which is the head waters of the Dead River. Kawanhee conquered the entire Chain-O-Ponds, a total round-trip distance of 12 miles. As tradition goes, the wind picked up on the return trip, and we fought to make headway. For dinner Tom Ruhle whipped up his "whatisit stew" which was enjoyed by all. By dark our good weather was gone and the rains came.

The next morning we emerged from our tents well rested and dry with the exception of one tent full of boys who claimed they had "two inches of water" in their tent. Scott Albin and Tom Ruhle somehow managed a wet-weather fire. Pancakes were on the docket for breakfast and Frank Hoster set a Kawanhee pancake-eating record, something like a dozen.

Camp was broken, all our food and gear was loaded in the canoes and transported across to the point of rendezvous with the truck. Our campsite was rechecked for paper, trash, forgotten clothing and counselors. A surprise lunch of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches was served. Bates showed up on time for another Kawanhee record and we quickly boarded for a trip to Canada. We returned to Natanis Point where the truck was loaded and we soon departed and a bit reluctantly returned to civilization.

Woodsmen's Contest

For the first time in Kawanhee history, a woodsmen's contest replaced the usual water meet as the sole Saturday afternoon activity. Frank Stewart, the former director of Campcraft, recently returned from forestry camp, organized the meet along the lines of lumbermen's fairs. The boys engaged enthusiastically in Maroon-Grey competition in the new events, some familiar camp activities and some totally new. A slalom canoe race demanded skill as well as strength and endurance, but, to the surprise of many contestants, so did the sawing, splitting and log throwing events. Tiny Jose Zapata delighted the spectators as log rolling champion of the camp and Stewart ended this event by dunking the new Campcraft director. A very popular event was the Indian Fire Pump race in which each boy tried, using a one-man, fire-fighting pump, to fill a bucket held ten yards away by his miserable partner. The Maroons proved the superior woodsmen by a score of 170 to 152, although the over-all winner was Del Tracy, chief judge of the cooking contest.

Raiders Rip Blue Boys, Stretch Lead

John Gill and Gordon Glidden led the pennant-pondering Red Raiders past the cellar-dwelling Moodies of Blue in the KLL's abbreviated sixth week. The Raiders won 5-3. Gill flipped his fourth victory of the year against two losses and Glidden smacked two hits, one right, one lefty, lifting his average to a hefty .434. The win put the Raiders in first by two full games over the Black Death and four in front of the Blues.

Gill fanned 14, walked six and scattered two base hits in the fray, while opposition operator, Brad Glick, struck out ten and assisted in five Raider's raps in his losing cause. Following Gliddo in the production department, Luis Benitez, Alex Hadden and Gill found holes in the Blue network and gathered in the five Red runs in the game's first three frames. The Moodies could not sandwich hits around their offensive ace, joltin' Jet Tremble, and when they got men on base, there were usually two outs except for the third when three runs came across on Tremble's bags-filled single to center

Bunt City's Mayor Brinkerhoff Ousts Senior Citizens

The uppity Junior Counselor softball organization faced with the fact that it cannot overcome the lengthy Senior mentor game lead, nevertheless has refused to roll over and play dead. The youngsters pasted the big guys with a 13-10 licking with a dose of their own medicine, the come-from-behind victory in closing the incredibility gap to 8-4. The Juniors took the one-game weekend series and renamed Weld, Maine to Bunt City in the process.

Calling on a nestful of master campers to turn the trick, the Juniors junked their number one offensive weapon, the Williams-Tracy show, and employed the snap rap to snatch victory from the grasp of the sleazy Seniors. Buntin' Bob Brinkerhoff, Mark Standen and a host of converts sandwiched a few well-oiled ropes and leaguers, Texas-style in between, for windom. The evening saw Magnet-mitt-Mike "The Toad"-Altmaier make his first misplay of the sea-

East - West Game

The long awaited East-West softball game was played August 10. The East has been waiting for a chance to challenge the "boys of the West" to another game for several seasons; however, the breaks were with the bats of the West and the East went down to defeat.

Bob Zechiel, pitcher for the East, pitched a flawless game, but the bats of the West were too hot to hold. Rich McBurney, star hurler for the West, was cheated out of a shut-out when Frank Stewart reached first on a dropped ball and then rounded home on a series of errors. Rick helped his own cause with a 5th inning line drive that cleared the left field fence and brought in three runners and also a double in the 9th.

The "boys from the West" were really hot in the fifth inning. Jack Pray started the rally with a stand-up double over the fence in right field. Mike Altmaier singled to right and Gordon Gray RBI'd Altmaier and Pray on his double to center. Andy Williams, Scott Tracy and Jim Duffey continued the rally with singles to load the bases. Rich McBurney's homer cleared the bases. Jack Pray scored again on a hard-hit grounder deep onto the tennis courts.

Jim Duffey robbed the East of a homer when he fielded Dan Greening's long-hit ball to center and made a perfect throw to home plate where Bob Boles tagged him as he slid into home.

Mike Altmaier received the VIP award of the game as he snagged several hits to right field to rob the boys from the East of possible homers. The "Flip" award was given to Andy Williams for his beautiful forward roll to snag an infield pop of Rick Whitmyre's in the bottom of the ninth.

The "boys from the East" just couldn't get a rally into high gear. Mark Standen, Dick Morton, and Bob Zechiel singled to start a 5th inning rally, just to have it die when Mike Altmaier, again, snagged three straight hard hits to right.

Mike Meserole lost a possible homer deep into center when Jack Pray raced back to the tennis courts to snag the ball. He lost another hit on a snare by third baseman Scott Tracy. Zeke started a rally in the 8th and Greening singled to center but the rally died there as Chikk Myers made a running catch of Frank Stewart's home-run ball to center.

The "boys of the East" had several home-run-tagged hits but the "boys from the West" were playing great defensive ball as well as hitting the spheroid. The East eagerly awaits the 1969 season and a return engagement with the West.

Weekend At Kawanhee

Saturday at Kawanhee found another "first" in events as a new campcraft meet was held in the afternoon. This event included log rolling in the water, pulpwood throwing, cross cut and buck sawing, fire fighting, cooking and log splitting. Almost every camper in camp participated in one of the events. Frank Stewart and John Willis are to be commended for their fine show of the afternoon. It was something new and different and everyone enjoyed either participating or watching.

Even a corn husking event was held and points were awarded to each team. The Maroons husked 168 ears of corn and the Greys 118 ears of corn in just 20 minutes time. Chef Taylor provided a watermelon for all the contestants after the event. The corn was very delicious for the noon meal.

Saturday evening the East-West softball game was held with the West winning 9-1. Bob Zechiel was the pitcher for the East and Rich McBurney was the hurler for the West.

Saturday night the usual campfire was held on Council Point. Les Newton led the campers in a couple of songs including the old favorite "Old MacDonald Had A Farm." The Pole Cat Lodge added a new animal to the tune. Lee McCleave and Mark Schiewetz were adding very loud "stink, stinks" to portray the role of the skunk. The musical entertainment ended with the older lodges singing "I've Been Working On The Railroad." Brad Glick, Eric Etherington, Dave Scribner, Gerard Wheeler and Tod Tremble ended the song with very loud and long "Ooooooooooooooh's."

After the musical, the boys stood before the campfire to be recognized for their many achievements during the past week. A story by John Willis concluded the program and the evening.

The campers awakened Sunday morning to a beautiful Sabbath day. The wind was quite strong and the lake was filled with beautiful white caps and the mountains were very clear, towering in the background. However, the wind was too strong to permit our worship service to be held in our Chapel on the point, so the campers and friends assembled in the Rec Hall for a worship service conducted by Rev. Stanley McCleave. Mr. Duffey read the scripture and the Kawanhee Chorus provided the spiritual music.

Sunday afternoon the campers hiked into Weld, a distance of two miles, for their usual "goodies." The sailing regatta with Camp Kineowatha for Girls was cancelled due to the high winds. This was a great disappointment to both camps.

Sunday evening the entire camp assembled in the Rec Hall for a short worship service conducted by Rev. McCleave. A short movie concluded the evening and the week at Kawanhee.
