TRIPS MARK SECOND WEEK OF CAMP

The second week of camp saw the Northeast Carry group off to Vermont to begin their hiking. Canoe trips journeyed to the Saco River. Young campers panned for gold with Bates at the Swift River outpost. The rain returned, stopped, then returned again. We dodged puddles all day and listened to the drumming on the roof at night.

However, campers don't melt, so activities proceeded in spite of the weather. At the beginning of the third week of camp, the Monhegan groups left for their exciting days of deep-sea fishing. Campers can now "sign-out" for activities, and will be working to perfect skills in their favorites.

Grey team captain Mark Schiewetz and Maroon team captain Frank Finetto were on hand for the first reading of the camp score. B.A., as usual, held his audience in the palm of his hand, while he doled out bits and pieces of the score before revealing the total—Grey 3320 to Maroon 2984.

FIRST CANOE TRIPS CONQUER THE SACO

— by Mitch Greenawalt —

Two different groups of campers met with two different kinds of weather on their first canoe trips of the season. Two hours from camp, the group put in at Fryeburg. The Saco is a winding river with a shallow sandy bottom, clear water, and beautiful sandy beaches. It was a hot day; many dips were taken on the paddle downstream. After 3 hours (8 miles), we arrived at Walker's Rips, an AMC campsite, and set up camp. After supper, we paddled upstream to a quiet pond where moose and eagles have been seen; we found none, though Mitch, Scott Cramer, and Scott Cress did see a beaver and a heron.

The night was so warm that most of the group moved their sleeping bags out of the Adirondack lean-to and slept on the beach under the stars.

Wednesday morning after breaking camp, we lined up to shoot the one and only set of rapids. Then we turned up the tributary which leads to Lovell Pond. A flock of wild ducks sat on a gravel bank and watched us. Everyone took a dip in Lovell Pond, with the backdrop of Mt. Washington behind us. Back down the tributary, we found the ducks still watching us, well camouflaged and unafraid.

Soon we reached the East Brownfield bridge, about 35-40 feet high. This is a pull-out spot, so several groups were eating lunch. They cheered and applauded as the Kawanhee boys took turns jumping from the bridge. Soon Big John arrived with the truck, and we loaded up and headed back to Fryeburg, where the second group waited.

Now we were not so lucky; as the second group started down the river, it became apparent that rain was going to catch us. When we arrived at Walker's Rips, it was full of other canoe groups. Fortunately we had reserved the Adirondack for that night. 18 people can fit in one, but it is mighty cramped. We told stories and jokes until most everyone had dozed off. Duncan Parrish and Mitch met at the campfire and got it going again, to make it easier to start in the morning. The next morning, everyone was tired, so we left without visiting Lovell Pond. The bridge once again attracted many jumpers, until John Duncan arrived to take us back to camp. We all felt like true canoe campers, and looked forward to another trip.

The boys in the first group were Peter Blau, Dave Boothby, Brian Hekeiman, Greg Mueller, Trip Randall, Scott Cramer, Scott Cress, Jace Eliason, Matt Lou, Eric Jensen, Rees Tulloss, and Hormoz Zarghami. In the second group were Peter Cano, Drew Detrick, Jim Klingbeil, Eric Miller, Mark Nachman, Dale Cochran, Dave Colescott, Jim Huguley, Steve Sengelmann, Andy Braunstein, Peter Carnahan, Doug Colescott, Whitney Durrell, Jon Lupfer, Rex Lynne, and Duncan Parrish. Counselors were Mitch Greenawalt, John Marbach, and Jose Valles.

SACO RIVER TRIP

— by Dave Colescott —

(Dave is a camper in Pole Cat Lodge and this is his first article in The Wigwam. We welcome the contributions of all counselors and campers, and hope that more people like Dave will write for us in the future.)

Saco River was a great trip. After we got there in the Bouncing Buggy, we went swimming. There is a huge dropoff, then there's a sandbar. The current is three miles per hour. You swim downstream and start picking up speed and then try to stop and can't. You have to swim parallel to shore.

When we got started it was good canoeing. We stopped at a couple places to swim for about five minutes. Ahead we had eight or nine miles to go to get to the campground.

When we got to the campground we unloaded the canoes and went swimming. Across the river there was a tree you could dive off. Then we went down the rapids on boating cushions.

The next morning we went down the rapids, then we went way down the river and we came to a big fallen tree and it was bobbing up and down. (The current was making it bob.)

The best part of the trip was at the end. There was a bridge sixty feet tall. The first time I jumped it was easy. The second time I wouldn't do it. I thought it was a great trip!

LAKE SWIMMERS

"Swimming the lake" is an important test of swimming ability and stamina. It is a $\frac{1}{4}$ mile swim from the swimming dock to a stand of birch trees on the opposite side of the lake. In order to have boating privileges outside the cove, each camper must first pass this test. Those campers who are not ready to swim the lake yet, may take two lesser swimming tests, the cove (about 110 yards) and the dock (100 feet). During the first two weeks of camp, the following persons have swum the lake:

THE CAMP KITCHEN STAFF

If the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, then head chef RUTH E. BOARDMAN has almost 200 men and boys in love with her. "We want the cook!" is heard frequently during the week as Ruth's delicious meals are met with rounds of applause. From Cape Girardeau, Missouri, Ruth teaches English and is the librarian at St. Vincent's College, a high-school level seminary for boys who are considering the priesthood. She is the mother of two sons, John Mark, who raises registered Black Angus cattle, and Craig, a college student. When she's not cooking, Ruth enjoys gardening, fishing, and bridge. Kawan- hee welcomes her back for her second summer.

GINNY BRUTSCHER (introduced in the last issue) assists Ruth and bakes some marvelous bread and rolls for meals.

POLLY VAN DEN HONERT, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, is the pastry Chef in her 5th Kawanhee summer. A senior at Boston University, Polly is the sister of Peter, of the swimming department. "We want Polly" is heard often in the dining hall, particularly after desserts such as strawberry shortcake and blueberry cheesecake!

PATTI KNOTE, of Cape Girardeau, Missouri, is spending her first summer at Kawanhee, as head waitress in the dining hall. Besides supervising the lodge waiters, she is also responsible for serving the staff tables on the porch. A sophomore at Cotley College (a two-year women's college), Patti enjoys playing tennis.

Here for their first summer are chef's assistant's Albert Umbertino and JoAnne Ellis.

Dishwashers for this season are Beth Elliott, Clarence Forest, and Maynard Hollow.

Ed Daley takes charge of camper's laundry and cleaning the Fort.

KAWANHEE INN STAFF

The rustic charm of the Kawanhee Inn, with its wholesome gourmet meals is gaining a wider reputation every year. Parents, camp alumni, and other friends have long enjoyed the relaxing atmosphere, "away from it all". Before camp opened, the Inn hosted a three-day seminar for CABOL (Consumer Association for the Betterment of Living). CABOL Executive Director Anne Jones Haas, Danby, Vermont, stressed the need for a better understanding of nutrition: wholesome meals, particularly for children, can help prevent learning problems. Seminar participants were served mostly natural foods with no additives.

LYDIA DETRICK, dietician for the Inn, served as Kawanhee coordinator for the conference. Lydia, wife of "Big John", is the mother of LuAnn, John, Sam, and Drew. She loves French cooking.

JANE ESTABROOK, wife of camp managing director Walter Estabrook, is Resident Manager of the Inn. She keeps so busy she has not had time to enjoy her hobby of sewing.

JUDY STOWE, Columbus, Ohio, serves as camp and Inn bookkeeper during her first summer at Kawanhee. She lives at the Inn, where she loves visiting with the guests, and going antiquing on her days off. Judy says she appreciates her husband Tod, son Steve, and daughter Stephanie, who keep the home fires burning. During the winter, Judy works at Kappa Kappa Gamma national headquarters in Columbus.

BRUCE LINDBERG, Dixfield, Maine, is personnel coordinator for the Inn and camp and also helps out as Inn cashier. He teaches English at Dirigo High School, and coaches varsity basketball. His hobbies are reading and sports. DAVID GROHMAN, of Coburn Farm, Carthage, Maine, spends his first summer as the Inn's head chef. A college junior, he lives on his father's self-sufficiency farm, is interested in natural, healthy foods, enjoys "intense" music, and is "keeping a 1960 VW alive." He says he is a student of life, and claims "the ladybug holds the path together" (?).

ALTHEA LEE, Weld, Maine, is back for her 8th summer as pastry chef at the Inn. She is well known for her luscious cakes, bread, and pies. Mother of seven, grandmother of six, she enjoys cake decorating and knitting.

NANCY VAN DEN HONERT, wife of Peter of the camp swimming department, spends her third summer making salads and helping out at the Inn. From Carpentersville, Illinois, she is an elementary music teacher and a descendant of Pocahontas.

ANNE HAAS, Danby, Vermont, is spending her first summer as assistant chef at the Inn. A high school senior, she is the sister of camper Jim Haas.

KAREN SENGELMANN, Columbus, Ohio, is another Inn newcomer, working as head waitress. Her brother Mark and cousins Erich and Steve can be found at camp. Karen is a sophomore at the University of Michigan.

GAY CRAMER, from Wallingford, Pa., sister of camper Scott, spends her first season here as Inn waitress. She is a high school senior.

MICHELE CARRIER, Carthage, Maine, is cabin girl for her first summer here. She is a high school junior.

(Note to camp counselors: latter four girls claim to be available, charming, and good company.)

The necessary, but thankless, job of dishwashing is handled this year by Franz Luce and David Ellis. From Dixfield, they are both seniors at Dirigo High School. Franz likes to play basketball, and David enjoys fishing and sports.

JEFF SWETT, Skowhegan, Maine, is a familiar face around the Inn and camp, as he drives "Gertie" and collects garbage cans. His official title, however, is Manager of Cabins. A sophomore at the University of Maine at Orono, he enjoys photography, hunting, fishing, and scuba-diving.

A NEW KAWANHEE GAME

In order to arouse a little interest and good natured competition in this year's counselor softball league, the Kawanhee Bureau of Statistics is sponsoring The First Annual Altmaier vs. Birch Batting Bonanza Sweepstakes. Here are the rules: Since both families have three members competing in this year's series (Altmaiers John, B.A., and O.J.; Birches Bruce, Brian, and Henry Schuck, who qualifies by his marriage to Birch's Bonnie) and both families are known for their softball prowess, it seems only logical that both families should have high composite averages. So, at the end of the season, the family owning the highest composite average will win an undisclosed amount of cash and a prize to be named later, to be awarded by the K.B.S. Bribing scorers is definitely out.

This week the Birches, despite missing one contest because of a conflicting day off, lead the Altmaiers by a solid .29 percentage points. Tune in next week to see who's ahead in the exciting Altmaier vs. Birch Batting Bonanza Sweepstakes!

KAWANHEE LITTLE LEAGUE REPORT

BLACK MAGIC MASTERS MISTY BLUE

The Kawanhee Little League's first matchup of the second week saw a slick-fielding Black Magic squad drub the struggling Misty Blue in a 14-5 rout July 7. Will Fleming, exhibiting pinpoint control, baffled the Blues all evening. Allowing only two walks, Fleming forced the opposition to hit easy ground ball outs to his steady infield.

Offensively, Black power-boys John Ketterer and Jon Morgan combined for three hits to ignite two four run rallies in the first and fifth innings. The big shot, however, was a one out, bases loaded double by Fleming.

The Misty Blue couldn't get on the scoreboard until the fourth frame.

Holdout Steve Minus, making his first appearance at Button Park since his spectacular '75 season, led off the inning with a two bagger. Pitcher Mike Duncan knocked him home with a single. Duncan stole second, moved to third on Andy Trayner's ground out, then scored on a Lars Jensen poke to center. But the rally died and the Misty Blue could produce little else in the remaining two innings.

The Black's second win in as many outings gave them undisputed control of first place in the young K.L.L. season.

MISTY BLUE UPSETS ORANGE PLUS, 8-6

On a sunny Friday evening, the scrappy Misty Blue team shook off their losing ways by nipping the Orange Plus 8-6. Two rookie pitchers, T. "Rip" Randall for the Orange and Phil LiCalzi for the Blue squared off against one another with LiCalzi emerging the victor. He yielded just five singles, while fanning eleven in the six inning contest.

On the plus side, the Orange built up a 4-2 lead after three innings. Orange shortstop Carter Messick, who went two for three on the day, smacked a two run single in a four run third to create the 4-2 margin.

A Blue six run outburst greeted Randall in the following frame. He hit Jon Lupfer to start things off, and then walked Yasser Alwan and Eric Miller. Lars Jensen followed with a mighty blow to the left, and when the dust finally settled he was smiling on second and all three runners had made the trip home. Andy Braunstein continued the pounding with a triple, and Mike Duncan followed with a single, driving in Andy. By the inning's end, six Blue men had crossed the plate, giving Misties a lead they would not lose.

The Blue victory placed them in a tie with Plus for the celebrated cellar position--both teams, however, are only a game and a half off the pace set by the league leading Black Magic.

GREEN MONSTER JUICED BY...WHO ELSE?

The Orange Plus pounced out eleven safe ties enroute to their first win of the 1976 season. It was one of those sweet come-from-behind affairs (fashioned after the J.C.'s polishing off the S.C.'s Saturday night).

Rex Lynne, starting Monster hurler, held the Orange to four runs through the first three innings, while his team amassed seven runs. Seasoned twirler Doug Colescott, still with the Orange, had difficulty finding the groove, and was forced to yield the pitching duties to Trip Randall. Randall pitched near flawless ball, giving up just and whiffing seven of nine batters for the remaining three frames.

The Plus erased the 7-4 deficit with a five run explosion in the fourth inning. Doug Chakmak-"Big Mac"-ian opened the inning by drilling the ball up the gap in left center. Jim Klingbeil walked, Doug Colescott followed with a shot that nobody could get to until it was too late to stop him from arriving on third with a triple and two R.B.I.'s. And T. "Rip" Randall wasted no time in getting Colescott home, as he followed with a single. Harlan Levey collected another single, and then Carter Messick got his second hit of the day, a two run double that made the score 12-7. And although the Green scored twice more in the game, once on a Rex Lynne triple, they were never able to regain the lead. Final score: Orange Plus 12, Green Monster 9.

SYSTEM FINDS POSTURPEDICS SOFT

The Hank Aaron League season got underway June 28 as Mack Bell's System squared off against the PosturPedics of Peter Seeley. John White, pitcher, led off the game for the System with a single, advanced on an Al Natelli safety, and scored when Richie Popp reached on an error. The PosturPedics answered and scored with three runs of their own in the bottom half of the inning, on singles back by Jim Haas, Chris Yardley, and Henry Shamamian, and a double by Captain Pete. After two the score stood at 8-5 in favor of the Pedic club.

But the System fought back in the top of the third, rallying with two outs as Dave Van Houten, big Mack himself, and Steve Webster all crossed the plate. Seeley's club quickly broke the deadlock when Bryan Day singled Chip Trayner across to make it a 9-8 tally. Then Trayner, the PosturPedic pitcher, held the System scoreless in the fourth and fifth frames; after five complete they enjoyed a slender two run lead, 10-8.

The System collected six runs on five base hits in the sixth, including a long-distance double by Captain Mack. Jim MacDonald, Van Houten, John (no relation) Bell, and White also contributed hits to the charge that reversed the decision. Adding one last tally in the top of the seventh, they walked away victors by a 15-10 count, and left the PosturPedics with their ears ringing.

HANDY HADLEY HITS FOR CYCLE, NAVY SINKS PEDICS

Scott MacPhail, moundsman and Admiral of his MacPhail's Navy sent the unsuccessful Seeley's PosturPedic club deep beneath the waves July 2nd, crossing the plate seventeen times in a contest that was shortened to five innings mainly out of mercy. There was only a brief moment of hope for Seeley's band, when they drew first blood in the top of the first, scoring twice as Bryan Day doubled and Chris Yardley and Jim Haas singled. But the powerful Navy squad upped anchors and grabbed two runs of their own in the bottom of the inning and, while MacPhail pitched shutout ball in the second, third, and fourth innings, they notched eleven more runs. When the game was called after five, the Navy owned a 17-4 advantage.

Scott Hadley, the Navy leftfielder, took star of the game honors by rapping out a single, double, triple, and a home run in four at bats. In hitting for the cycle, he scored four times and collected six Runs Batted In, which is about as much as you can do in a five inning contest.

Lou San Juan, also a Navy man and an ex-K.L.L. star, grabbed three hits on the day, as did Jim Haas of the hapless PosturPedic team. Seeley's squad collected only seven hits on the afternoon, while the Navy more than doubled that total with fifteen. Six of those were for extra bases, including Hadley's three shots.

A CLOSE CALL: BELL SYSTEM SLIPS BY NAVY

MacPhail's Navy and Mack Bell's System met July 6th to decide who would take the early season Hank Aaron League lead, both teams having more or less crushed the spring out of Seeley's PosturPedics. On the basis of the two team's earlier performances, the Navy seemed to have a definite edge, since they had enjoyed a thirteen run margin in defeating Seeley & co., while the System came out on top by a slimmer majority of five. But, as it turned out, the two teams were about as evenly matched as any two squads could be.

The System drew the home team honors, and so MacPhail and his Navy came up to bat first.

With a score of 1-1 in the top of the second the Navy crossed the plate five times on six hits, including MacPhail's second consecutive double and, after MacPhail shut out the System in the second, they tallied six times more to seemingly put the game out of reach at 12-1.

MacPhail & Co. had not reckoned on the System's late-inning power, however, which they had demonstrated earlier against the PosturPedics, getting half their runs in the last two innings. Leigh Oliva led off the home half of the inning with a walk, Dave Van Houten singled, and Jose Valles drew another walk to load the bases. Then Captain Mack stepped in and Systematically sent a single off that scored two, and John White reached on a Navy error while a third run scored. That made it 12-4 after three. In the bottom of the fifth inning the System sent nine men to the plate and put four runs across to make the score a not so laughable 12-8. And Dave Van Houten, who had taken over pitching duties from the bombarded John White, went out and blanked the Navy for the third straight inning in the top of the sixth.

In the bottom of the sixth the System took advantage of three Navy errors and singles by Valles and Al Natelli to score three times, shaving the Navy's edge to a one run, 12-11 lead.

Now Van Houten had his work cut out for him. After six and a half innings, the Navy led 14-11, and Mack Bell and his System had but one more chance to come from behind and win it.

John Hamblin, substituted late in the game for defensive purposes, drew a walk. Van Houten, who had pitched so well, singled, advancing him to third. Valles singled to score Hamblin while Van Houten went to third. 14-12. Mack Bell, with the chance to save the day for his team, stepped up to the plate representing the winning run. He singled, knocking in Van Houten. 14-13. John White reached on an error. Valles scored. 14-14. Men on first and third, one out. Jim MacDonald stepped to the plate. A natural right-hander, MacDonald bats lefty because he feels he hits with more power from that side. The pitch--and McDonald sent a drive to right field, and it fell in for a base hit, and Bell scored, and somehow the System had come back from a 12-1 deficit to win it. It was a game the thirty-seven fans who had turned out to watch would not forget.

POSTURPEDICS PUT SYSTEM TO SLEEP, 14-2

The Seeley PosturPedics, winless in two decisions, got their chance for revenge against the undefeated System of Mack Bell July 8th, which had previously toppled them 15-10. Seeley & Co. were thirsty for a victory and snagged one easily, turning the league upside down with no clear first place team again.

The PosturPedics never trailed, tallying four times in the first on three System miscues, a walk, singles by Jim Haas and Chip Trayner, and a Bryan Day double. Bryan "Double" Day now leads the circle in two base hits, with five.

Peter's Pedics added two in the fifth, four in the sixth, and another four in the seventh to seal the easy win, while the System surfaced briefly for two runs in the fifth, their entire offensive output on that day. For the PosturPedics, it was Chip Trayner day, as the young hurler allowed but nine hits and two runs, and collected three hits himself. Chris Yardley, another Pedic star, rapped out two doubles and a triple and scored three of his team's fourteen runs.
