Greys Continue to Reap Points Junior Cs Make Most Hay

With the third reading of the score on July 24, the first significant break in the Maroon-Grey contest appeared. The Greys had leaped ahead to increase their advantage to 915 points. The score on that date stood: Greys, 3613; Maroons, 2698. If the credit for the score is to be given where the credit is due, the Junior C group should take the bows. Of the total of 2900 points scored by the two teams during the week, 1125 were chalked up in the three youngest lodges by achievement-level work. There is not a Junior C who has not passed at least one level. None of the other age-groups can approach this record. As the result of level work alone, a Junior C has one of the largest individual scores at the present moment. L. Page has passed seven levels for a total of 180 points. Only three of the older campers can top this score. W. Robson, Junior A, has 9 levels worth 210 points; J. Smith, Senior, has 8 adding up to 230; and T. Williams leads the field with 8 levels valued at 250 points.

Gold Panned on Swift River, Two Mountains Revisited

By P. STRACHAN, Junior A

On Tuesday, July 20, the boys and counsellors of the Birch and Beaver Lodges went gold-panning on Swift River. Although it was fun riding in the truck, I had an even better time panning gold. There were only a few tiny pieces found but great excitement arose when any was discovered. After lunch some of the boys hiked upstream or collected minerals. Later, everyone worked at the sluice box where most of the gold was found. We returned to camp in time for supper. The day was fun but we were glad to come back and get some rest.

On Friday two mountain trips were made. In the morning the Pine Trees climbed Mt. Blue with Mr. Umpleby. That afternoon a group of Beavers, Wildcats and Birches went up Tumble-down with Coach Smith. The much-travelled Birches and Beavers went to Coos Canyon on Sunday afternoon to enjoy the swimming.

Umpleby, New Wildcat Arrive

The Kawanhee staff reached its full strength on July 22, when Marshall Umpleby, Headmaster of the Englewood School for boys, returned for his fourth summer in this camp. Mr. Umpleby will devote his time to trips and to Athletics.

On July 23, the Wildcat Lodge received a welcome recruit in the person of Stephen Graves. His home is in Utica, N. Y., and he is a newcomer to Kawanhee. On July 24, R. Clark departed from the Deer Lodge to spend the remainder of the summer travelling with his family.

Fledgling U. S. Sailors Hatched On Webb Lake's Waves

In entering the Services, Kawanhee's Junior Counsellors of the last two seasons have displayed a preference for the Navy. Perhaps the billowing waves of Webb Lake have given them a taste for the sailor's life.

This explanation is suggested by a letter from John Bittenbender, the youngest of a tribe that will long be remembered in the Woodcraft Cabin. From Stillwater, Oklahoma, John writes as follows: "I went to Purdue University until last February, when I joined the Navy. Somehow I thought I would like the sea a little better than the land. Maybe the boats at Kawanhee made me feel that way. After completing 'boot' training, I started a long course towards becoming a Radio Technician. Our work has to do mainly with 'Radar.' I have about eight more months of training and then a little practical work. Right now I am a Seaman, Second Class, looking forward eagerly to a rating."

Dick Koch is in the V-12 Naval Training Unit at Granville, Ohio. His letter emphasizes, somewhat nostalgically, the differences between life at Kawanhee and his present life. "I am in camp, but it is a very different camp. . . . We are taking a minimum of 19 hours of school work a week, and you know that it is not easy work. Added to that, we have an hour of physical fitness each day. We get up at six and

Maroons Splash and Bob to First Aquatic Triumph

The Maroons scored their first aquatic victory in the water meet on July 24, to the tune of 120 to 105. Winning the first two relay races, they were off to a flying start and led the Greys, 56 to 22, at the end of the sixth event. At that point, the Greys began to show their accustomed power. The two canoeing contests and G. Defoe's win in the Junior C Flutter Race gave them a chance to redeem themselves. Led by W. Licklider, however, the Maroons swam off the second Junior C event and then took the War Canoe Race for the final decision. The winners of first places were as follows:

Junior B Shuttle Relay	Maroon Team (M. Umpleby, T. Griley, D. Dignan, T. Brydon, M. Nelson, E. Eckfeldt)

League Baseball Games

In the American League games on July 22, the Red Sox took undisputed control of first place by beating the Senators, 9 to 7. Both of these teams were previously undefeated. The Yankees took care of Chicago, 6 to 3. By the score of 5 to 2, the Cleveland Indians won their first game by beating the Tigers, who are now in full control of the League cellar.

In the National, the Cards strengthened their hold on first place by beating the Cubs, 10 to 5. The Reds nosed out the Braves, 11 to 9, and Brooklyn took care of New York by the score of 9 to 5.

PUNK FROM THE LOG

In the Falcon Lodge, the beds have continued to climb the walls. Now there are several Falcons who have to pick rafter splinters from their chins when they get up—no, get down—in the mornings. With everything so shipshape, it has been decided to change the name from Falcon Lodge to Terry's Ark. The Skipper, in the highest bunk of all, has only one more job to do, to cut a little escape hatch in the roof through which, when the floods subside, he can send forth some dove like Tom Johnson.

The performance of Ted Mixer's model sailboat certainly set us thinking. As soon as the little boat was released, it whisked across the cove and cuddled up to the side of the Sea Gull. We wonder how seriously we should take the anonymous remark heard on the beach, "Oh, look. The Sea Gull's had kittens."

The Department of Utter Confusion contributes the following conversation: "I'm on Mr. Frank's baseball team," boasted Mike Griley.

"No, you're not," stated Gardner Defoe. "I'm on Mr. Frank's team and you're not on the same team I am, so you can't be on Mr. Frank's team."

"Oh yes, I am, too," insisted Mike. "You're on the other Mr. Frank's."

"Oh, you mean that one," remarked Gardner. "I thought you were talking about BIG Mr. Frank."

"No," replied Mike, "we were talking about little Mr. Frank."

It is the consensus of opinion that a careful analysis of this conversation would be indiscreet.

A bit of enlightenment on Kawan-heck anatomy resulted from the Tumbledown trip. Bateman and Nowold tried to pass each other in one of the less restricted sections of Fat Man's Misery and wedged midway, in more senses than one. Bates decided that brains would have to conquer—shall we say—brawn in this case.

"Lower your chest, Nowold," he said.

"Why don't you raise yours?" asked Nowold.

"Can't," replied Bates. "My belt's in the way."

The visit of the barbers brought to light some facts which Nature had charitably been hiding in the underbrush. Who would have guessed that Frank Harrah could look like a peeled eel or that Mike Nelson's fiery mane could be reduced to a raised eyebrow.

do twenty minutes of calisthenics. It isn't like the old days, waiting for the first bell to get up and start dressing."

Bill Hirt has also joined a V-12 unit. He graduated from high school in Erie last January and entered Wittenberg College, where he remained until the end of May. In the meantime, he had enlisted in the U. S. Navy V-1 Program. He was called to active duty as of July 1 and is now in uniform at Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, taking an engineering course there.

It might also be expected that last year's Sailing Counsellors would also be found in the Navy, but this is not the case. Kingsley Noble has joined the Coast Guard and is stationed on Long Island. Frank Henry is working on a farm in Ohio while he waits for his call to join the Army Air Corps.

Ross Miller, Jr., a camper and Junior Counsellor from 'way back and son of Dean Miller, has also favored the Army Air Force. He is now a cadet, studying Meteorology at Iowa State University.
