Camp Kawanhee, Weld, Maine

August 28, 1945

MAROONS CLINCH VICTORY

Since the beginning of the 1945 season, the Maroon team has remained on top. So it was at the final tally, 13,660 to 12,632. This, incidentally, is not the score which was announced Tuesday night, but the final, revised and official score. The Greys had thirty more Achievement Levels than the Maroons, but the Maroons more than made up for this with their representation in the Life Saving classes. This factor alone could account for the Maroon victory.

The Grey team deserves sincere recognition for continuing the battle. Week after week, they found themselves behind, but under Herb Erf's splendid leadership they never showed any tendency to give up the ship.

To Herb and to Gerry Clark, the whole camp owes thanks for being such swell captains. No matter which one lost, both of them were the tops.

Paddlemen Navigate Rangeley Lakes and Chain of Ponds

During the last full week of camp, two very successful canoe trips were made.

On Monday, August 13, a group of Seniors and Junior A's left with Mr. Nickerson for a trip through the Rangeley Lakes. They put in their canoes on the South Arm of Lower Richardson Lake and paddled to Spirit Island for the night. Tuesday they paddled up to the Narrows, through into Upper Richardson and on up to the portage over to Mooselookmeguntic. Wednesday brought a struggle with a head wind before they could reach a point on the shore where they could contact Mr. Bateman and the truck. One feature of the trip was a call on Mrs. Rich, the author of We Took to the Woods.

The Chain of Ponds trip filled the last three days of the week for a group consisting of Junior B's and a few Junior A's. On Thursday they drove up through Rangeley, stopped for lunch at Cathedral Pines, and put in at the old farm. They paddled up the ponds and made camp on Lake Natanis. A drive up into Canada, a paddle up the Horseshoe River, and a climb up to Clearwater Falls were highlights of the expedition.

Captains' Speeches and Award to Chief Highlight Camp Finale

The annual banquet was held in the Camp dining hall at 6:00 P.M., August 21. The room was festively decorated and the cheers were loud and enthusiastic, especially those for Emma and Mary, the authors of the feast, and for Ma Frank, who joined the boys at dinner for the first time in two years.

At 7:45, the camp reconvened in the Recreation Hall and welcomed the visiting parents and the other guests. After a few songs, the two captains, Gerry Clark and Herb Erf, took the floor. Both gave unusually thoughtful and effective talks, that of the Grey captain being notably impressive. There followed an unprecedented and very popular award, the recognition by the Directors, in the form of a war bond, of Mr. H. C. Marshall's twenty-five years as Kawanhee's Head Counsellor. Next in order were the awards, the ribbons, cups and citations, and the reading of the final Log. At last the long awaited moment arrived and the score was revealed. The evening ended in cheers, the victors and the vanquished alike hailing a triumph well and fairly won.

The following evening there was another mass meeting in the Rec Hall. Dean Miller concluded his story, and a first-hand account of a Pacific invasion was given the camp by Lt. Fred Freeman of the U. S. Navy, who was Kawanhee's first camper. Then everyone filed down to Council Point, for the beautiful, symbolic ceremony of Chief Kawanhee's farewell to the Kawanhee tribe of 1945.

Twenty-eight Campers Top 300. Honor Roll Supersedes Plaque

There are twenty-eight high point winners this season. The Camp Plaque was not awarded to the one camper with the highest score. In its place stands an honor roll of all those who have won three hundred points or more.

To these energetic twenty-eight, the Camp offers its congratulations for work well done. Their teams must be proud of them and grateful to them for their loyal efforts. The Junior C's deserve special commendation. Although their group was numerically the smallest, as well as the youngest, yet they contributed almost half of the names to the honor roll, thanks to their own enthusiasm as well as to the able leadership which the Junior C program enjoyed this summer.

There follows a list of the names of the campers on the honor roll.

Pirates Capture Senior Series. Junior Game a Runaway

The climax of Kawanhee's baseball season occurred on the afternoon of August 21, when the World's Series game of the Senior League was played. The event began with a parade, the whole camp lining up behind the band to march from the Rec Hall to the Athletic Field. The two competing teams were Bill Carpenter's Pirates and Jack Smith's Cardinals. The game itself proved to be an exciting contest which resulted in a victory for the Pirates, 8 to 4.

The following afternoon, the Junior League played its World's Series

THE 1945 ALPHABET

A for allowances — Oh, happy day!
For Atwell who lives over Farmington way,
For Appleman, Audrey of waiters the chum,
And Allen who hikes on the hoof and a thumb.

B is for Burtis — Now, there's a good man!
For Briner who baffled the boys as No Han,
For Blocker the boxer, each Brown and each Bunch,
For the bangs when Pete Baldwin sets tables for lunch,
The botanists counting each stamen and anther,
Cobey Britton who can't keep his ants in the Panther,
For baseball and Beavers, Herb Birch and C. Britton,
For the Buggy and Bates and each bump that they're hittin',
For Bottoms-up Broadbent, Tom Baldwin and Bauer,
Tom Brydon providing a towel for each shower,
For the "Buddy-up" buddies that Coach tries to match up,
For beans and for Beansie — Serve both with some catchup!
For Admiral Barkwill, Tom Bateman and Blau,
And Barth who milked bossie, while bossie yelled "Ou".

C calls for Clarks. It's for Bill, and for Gerry,
Of comic-book reading in public so chary,
For the coughs and the Capras, both Peter and Frank,
Whose diving reminds us of walking the plank,
For candy bars, Carpenter, I-doubt-it Crozier,
Costello's crash dive on his southern exposure,
The Chief and his clipboard, the sign-ups stampeding,
And the Crows who to pour their own chlorine are pleading.

D is for Duffey and Desmond and Deers,
For Defoe, and the din when the dining hall cheers,
For the Dean's fell designs of the Falcons' desserts,
For Donaldson's shorts which, he thinks, are the Nerts,
The unfillable depths inside Daley's equator
And slave-driver Davis, the dock-swim dictator.

E is for Elmore, our pastor and farmer,
Who calls on the nurse with some onions to charm'er.
It's Emma who charms with the cookies she serves.
It's Elliot-ball and a couple of Erves.

F is for Fisher, for fishing for sport,
For the Falcons so fearless they challenged the Fort,
For Freeman, the frogs that Pete Frothingham catches,
Ma Frank who dispenses affection and patches,
For the fun that we've had and the fish we eat Friday,
For Frannie who's mobile enough to write "My Day",
For the Fords, yes, for Byron, the dump-truck, and Dave,
And the Franks' favorite sport, hinting counsellors should shave.

G is for Gude, Tad Girdler and kin,
Young Butch who in slumber croons, Don't Fence Me In,
For Greenawalt's grin, for the Greys and for Gardner,
For Genberg so graceful when swung by his partner,
For the Gosses and Grileys — Let Norval hunt bunnies,
While Dave's in the trash box perusing the funnies,
And Mike's in the showers, where he often dunks,
And T. D.'s the diver, the Swan of the Skunks!

H is for Huck, and for "Hurry" and for Hooven,
For Hamblin whose J-stroke is ever improvin',
For old Sleepy Holler and Halsted and Hedges,
While Harrah plays swing and nicks Beethoven's edges,
The hurrahs that we hear for the swimming of Hadley,
And Hay ringing bells, while poor Blot sings so sadly.

We've ice cream for I, and, what's equally handy,
Inspections to keep us supplied with our candy.
For J, there's Joe Jeffrey, his clothes most deciduous,
And Junior the waiter (on fish) most assiduous,

And then we'll take Johnson. We have to get Tim in,
For Tim finds the trail when the trail leads to "Women".

K is for Kiefer who kids us and joshes,
And Miss Helen Krumm and the flowers she squashes.

L is for Lickliders, Landrum and Lamb,
For Logan, a loon that made Donaldson scam,
The lepidolite loading the brain of Dan Lindley,
The laundry whence clothes return livid and spindly,
The letter-day letters we never quite flunked,
And the lady that Lagemann gallantly dunked.

M is for Minich, Maroons and McInnes,
For Mac who puts pep, and some Phenalax, in us,
The mosquitoes that eat her, the magic that tricks'er,
The march of the ten-thirty shift with Ted Mixer,
For minerals, Mathews, Magruder and Mallory,
For Mary, our meat cook, the source of each calory,
For Marshall bicycling with many a wobble,
For Miller, the Dean, telling Les Miserables,
For Miss Minnie Mykrantz, Mark Mueller so mortified
That the fort of the wasps proved to be too well fortified,
For Melgard, Dick Miller, McConnell, Morrell,
And MacLaughlin absorbing his oatmeal by smell.

N is for noise, which at meal times dismays,
The two boys who are Noyes in much quieter ways,
For Nile and for Neumann, for Nature and Nowold,
And Nick, when bewhiskered, so dashing and bo-old.

O for the Orchestra's one orchestration,
Mrs. Orr who's sustained by "How Firm a Foundation",
For oatmeal, the office, and overnight hikes
To Swift River, the lean-to, the Fort and the likes.

P is for Pavy, who's so up and coming,
The parents in traffic jams, ditto the plumbing,
For Pulletts and Peleg, for Dick Price and Bob,
And Piersche protecting his tools from the mob.

For Q, the Quartet, now backed up by the Choir.
(Since it blew a rear tenor, it needs a spare tire!)

R for the Rhynes and their monstrous canteens,
For Reynolds whose nightmares call out the Marines,
The Range and the Rec Hall and such restful places,
For Ross, and for Reinmund who wins all the races,
For Robbins and Robinson, raffles and Romey,
And the rafters that Tarzan Pete Rich finds so homey.

S stands for Staton, Jack Smith and his Pop,
For Sutherland's sciences, eating and Shop,
For Spivak the Beltless, Paul Strong, Porky Strachan,
The Stewarts, of baseball the sine qua non,
For Spangler, the angler, the bugler and more,
(He subtracts from our hair and he combs out the score!)
For Sater's bass drums and for Senglemann's arrows,
For the Chipping, and also the square-dancing, Sparrows,
The sunnies that Sammy supplies with his soap,
The shirt for which Strong hasn't given up hope,
For Stillinger splashing, the sails of the Seagull,
The shocks that we get from the sleep-talk of Spiegel,
For Stevens and Sortor and poor Mrs. Spangler,
Of worms and dictation the hapless untangler.

For T, it's T. S. — all those trunks to be packed!
Ted Tallmadge, the target the At-bombs attacked,
And Taylor who shows us his magic entrancing
But reveals himself more in his dips and square-dancing.
It's tourmalines, Trowbridge, the tom-tom and Tuttle,
The kitchen boys' home, though its name's not too subtle.

The 1945 Alphabet

U is for under pants. Paging Pete Mueller!

(Coming back from Swift River, his seat was much cooler!)

V is for V-day, for soon it's V-J day, While today the Maroons are expecting V-K day.

For W, Wunsch, also Williams and Watson,

Skip Walker whose face the dear Duke left green spots on,

It's Wilson, and Warren with sardines so chummy,

Rod Wilcox whose whistle's so quick and so crummy,

All the "Why"s that we heard, and the "When"s, and the "What"s,

The Wormery, Webster and dramatist Watts,

It's Windle who waltzes around in no small

The wind that we light to protect Wildcats "all way",

And stern-wheeler Wallace, the flutter-board champ,

And Willard whose style dish-pan hands do not cramp.

X marks the spot where the Log stops its heckling,

And Y is for Yates, taking sun baths and freckling.

For Z, the brief rebirth of Zanzibar's Duke.

(After one J. C.s' meeting, he's once more a spook!)

Here at last is the end of the Log's graceless chore.

As Russ Nile wouldn't say — there just aint any more!

But we'll take time to mutter before our collapse,

"It's been a swell year — and we don't mean perhaps!"

So we'll say to you counsellors, campers and Franks

Who have made it so swell, "Fare thee well" with our thanks.

Special Victory Service

On the evening of August 15, Kawanhee celebrated the end of the war with a service of thanksgiving for victory and peace. Three brief and impressive talks made this Recreation Hall service a memorable one. Dr. Rees Edgar Tulloss took as his text, "Of the people, by the people, for the people." Dr. Elmore based his talk on the sentence, "We can never forget what they did." Dean Miller's subject was, "That we here highly resolve." The two captains, Herb Erf and Gerry Clark, led the camp in special prayers, and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by an Eagle Scout, Dick Donaldson.
