GREY LEAD GROWS GREATER

The Greys increased their lead to 452 points as the two teams rounded the season's halfway mark. On July 27 the score was: Greys, 4049½; Maroons, 3597½. While this lead cannot be considered a commanding one, it does represent a distinct betterment of the Greys' position over the 129½ point advantage which they held the previous Saturday. The Achievement Levels passed during the week gave the Greys 985 and the Maroons 795. The second major factor in the score was Life Saving. The successful completion of the J.L.S. course carries 75 points, while 150 are awarded for S.L.S. Up to July 27, sixteen men had passed the Junior examinations, and five the Senior, scoring 1050 points for the Greys to 900 for their rivals. Sports events alone favored the Maroons. The usual balance between a Maroon victory in the water meet and a Grey track triumph was maintained, but the Maroons carried off both hardball games.

Hall Reaps Record Crop of Jr. and Sr. Life Savers

The results of a second set of examinations in Life Saving, held on July 28 for the benefit of those returning from the second Windjammer Cruise, brought the total of the graduating class up to thirty-two. Twenty-three of these campers and Junior Counselors qualified for the American Red Cross certificates in Junior Life Saving, and nine for the Senior. Congratulations are extended to the winners of this honor for a hard job well done, and above all to the instructor, Dick Hall, for his notably successful handling of the largest class in Life Saving in Kawanhee's history. Those who successfully completed the course are:

Debutant Windjammers Cruise From Camden to Belfast

By W. DAVIS, JR. COUNSELLOR

A new experience began to unfold for the boys of Kawanhee on Sunday afternoon, July 21, when a group of twenty, composed of Junior Counselors and Seniors, left camp for the Windjammer Cruise under the supervision of Mr. Bateman. A school bus took us the hundred miles to Camden, Maine, where we boarded our schooner, the Lillian. The Lillian is one of a fleet of seven boats owned and operated by Captain Frank Swift. It was built in 1876 and has one of Maine's finest sea captains, Captain Robert Ladd, in command. That night we slept in small cabins that were simple, but comfortable. Early the next morning we started our life aboard ship by swabbing the deck, washing the dishes and loading food supplies on board.

The time had arrived to set sail. One by one the schooners left Camden and we began our voyage to Bucks Harbor at South Brooksville, where we were to spend the first night. Almost before we knew it, it was time for our noon meal. The food aboard the Lillian was prepared by the cook, Don, and his assistant, Frank. Our meals were varied and plentiful, and all of them were excellent. The ship carried an auxiliary in case there was no wind. It was really funny, because all it would do was to putt-putt-putt and then die out. That night in Bucks Harbor, feeling in need of some exercise, we climbed a small mountain overlooking the harbor. Later, a few of us rowed to another ship, the Enterprise, and joined its crew in singing to an accordion and guitar.

Tuesday morning many of the boys swam in the cold ocean water, and some even went so far as to swim under the ship. Bates, Johnson, Diaz, Nelson and Davis rowed out to an island to dig clams and came back with a large bucketful which everyone had that evening for supper. On the way back to the Lillian, they caught some starfish to bring back to the camp Nature Room.

By that time a heavy fog had set in

Veteran and Rookie Join Tribe

The most recent tribesman to return to Kawanhee is Donald C. Wambaugh, of Columbus, Ohio, who arrived on July 26 to assume duties to which he is well accustomed in the Boating and Canoeing Department. After a camp career that dates back to 1935, Don's first summer as a Senior Counsellor was interrupted when he was inducted into the Army in August of 1944. He spent six months in Germany with the Air Force as a flight mechanic, before receiving his discharge a few weeks ago.

Another addition to Kawanhee's lists is a newcomer, Jack Onderdonk of Englewood, N. J., who arrived on July 25 to swell the ranks on Pine Point.

Second Shift of Sailors Enjoy Nautical Life on Lillian

By J. MINICH, JUNIOR A

The afternoon of July 24, we, the members of the second Windjammer Cruise, arrived at Belfast, rarin' to go. We immediately recognized Capt. Bobbie and the mate, Jim, as fine fellows, in spite of their "quaint nautical terms". The cabins for four, six and eight were immediately assigned. R. C. Frank and Rod Willcox were so unfortunate as to land on the mosquito-netted boards in the mess. Throughout the cruise, however, bunks were of little value, as several of the more hardy sailors ventured to sleep topside.

Swabbing the decks each morning was a definite pleasure when we could practice our aqua-marksanship on the feet of some fellow landlubbers. The blisters on our hands, derived from hoisting sails, were ample proof that we did our share of the work on board.

The grub was excellent throughout the trip. It was highlighted by two and a half gallons of ice cream at one meal and several delicious lobsters at another. Kitchen duty was not so unpleasant, but the low bulkheads annoyed such monsters as Bill Romey who, we heard, could scarcely squeeze into his sleeping compartment.

War Canoes Repeat to Confirm Maroon Aquatic Victory

By W. CARPENTER, JR. COUNSELLOR
On Wednesday, July 24, the Maroons won their third consecutive water meet, the final score being 78 to 69. The contest, which was conducted entirely without the use of Seniors, was a close one all the way. The score seesawed back and forth until the Greys led, 54 to 53, before the war canoe race.

This final event decided the meet. The Greys got off to a fast start, but the Maroon canoe came from far behind in a whirlwind finish to win. Then it was discovered that the Maroons had carried two extra paddlers. So the race was run over and this time the Maroons won by two lengths.

The outstanding star of the afternoon was Bill Fleming who accounted for many of his team's 69 points, as he captured a fourth place, a third, and shared in two firsts. Dick Hall enlivened the day with his version of "Clem Kadiddlehopper", the country boy who insisted on displaying his peculiar versions of standard dives.

but, half an hour later, it lifted and we had beautiful sailing weather. The first mate, Jim, taught some of us several new knots. After sailing all day, we arrived in Castine harbor that evening. It was a nice town with several historical places of interest. There was a Maritime Service training ship in the harbor at that time for reconditioning. That night some of the boys went to a movie while the rest took a walk through the town.

Dick Donaldson and Jack Loveless were the prize fishermen the next morning. They pulled in several dogfish, which belong to a species of the shark family. As we sailed on to Belfast, we saw some of the other ships that had started out with us. Once in Belfast, we purchased some gifts for the crew to show our appreciation of the swell time that we had enjoyed.

About 6:30 P.M., another group of Kawanhee boys arrived to take our places aboard the Lillian for the last three days of the week, and we returned to camp in the bus. Everyone

The third round of baseball games in the Senior League was postponed because of the large number of older campers out of camp on the Windjammer Cruises.

The league games in the Junior division were played on July 23. Ray Brown's undefeated team wiped out P. Capra's, 12 to 0, while Mike Griley's defeated Defoe's, 9 to 6.

The Maroons captured both of the hardball games played during the week. The Junior A Maroons disposed of the Greys, 13 to 6, on July 22, and the Maroon Junior B's cleaned their Grey opponents, 13 to 5, on July 27.

Second Windjammer Cruise

All in all, we had a fine trip and any one of the stalwart young men who sailed on the Lillian will tell you that it was certainly a valuable experience which he would not want to have missed.

So, Saturday afternoon, after a rousing cheer for Capt. Bob, we hopped into the bus in Camden and sped back to Kawanhee in time for beans and baseball.

had had a good time and none of us would have wanted to miss that first Windjammer Cruise.
