TEAMS END IN DEAD HEAT Final Score Grey Maroon Tie

It just couldn't happen, but it did! The final score was a tie: Greys, 16,632; Maroons, 16,632. The walls of the Rec Hall never bulged with a wilder explosion of noise than at the moment when Ethan Davis stepped away from the banner, after pinning on the last number. It is the first time that the final score has been a tie, and it does not seem likely that such a thing will ever occur again.

In the excitement, one mistake was made, but not one that mattered. In the process of pinning up the numbers, the 3's and the 6's were reversed, so that the tie was proclaimed at 16,362, whereas the two teams were actually tied at 16,632.

Unexpected as was this result, it was, in a way, the quite logical outcome of the efforts of two evenly matched teams, working with equal enthusiasm under two equally fine captains. During the season, the lead changed hands four times. The gap between the two teams was never very great. Even the advantage of $846\frac{1}{2}$, which the Greys held on Aug. 14, was obviously not much protection against the flood of points produced by every final week of activity. The flood was never greater than it was this year, for the score almost doubled itself. Between them, the two teams produced 15,427 points in the final week.

Indians Win Series by One Run, Take Pennant from Senators

By M. SPROUL, JR. COUNSELLOR

In the annual World's Series classic at Camp Kawanhee, played this year on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 22, the Stillinger-captained Indians eased past Dick Miller's slugging Senators by the slight margin of 10 to 9 in seven innings of hard play.

In the first inning, Crandall got on base on the pitcher's error, and then scored from second on a base-hit by Blau. Stillinger then dropped a Texas-leaguer in the hole for the second hit of the inning, but later died on third as Hedges popped to Miller, and Conkey and Fleming went down swinging.

Banquet, Awards and Chief's Farewell Round out Season

The evening of Monday, August 23, brought the 1948 season to its climax. At 6:15 P.M., the campers and the staff gathered in the gaily decorated camp dining hall for the eagerly anticipated banquet. Turkey with all the appropriate accompaniments soon had everyone so comfortably filled that it was necessary to let off steam in some rousing cheers for Emma and Laurence, the authors of the feast, and for all their good assistants in the kitchen.

The celebration was resumed a short while later in the Recreation Hall, where the happy throng received the welcome addition of many parents and other friends of the camp. Dean Miller gave a short prayer and, after a song, opened the program by speaking of Kawanhee memories. A most welcome guest, Mr. H. C. Marshall, was then enthusiastically received when he spoke of his memories of this camp, with his usual warmth and sincerity. Charles Barkwill and Richard Miller, who gave the two teams such outstanding leadership this summer, made their brief and effective talks. Next came the reading of the Alphabet, the traditional closing chapter of each summer's Logs. The conferring of awards followed, the presentation of plaques, ribbons, and meritorious awards. The high point winners were named and at last the great moment arrived, the revelation of the score, concluding the evening with a great burst of cheering.

At dusk of the following day, the camp gathered for the last time this season at Council Point, to receive the symbolic farewell of Chief Kawanhee.

Fleming Takes Scoring Honors, Junior C's Complete Plaques

To no one's surprise, Bill Fleming ended the season far in the lead with 784 points. This is the largest individual score which has been chalked up since the number of points to be earned from Achievement Levels was limited to 600. Bill earned the full 600 from his levels, and added another 100 by winning both the Senior Checkers and the Senior Chess tournaments. Big scores are no novelty to him, for a year ago he ranked second with 582 points.

Four Junior C's particularly distinguished themselves by completing their plaques in one season. These energetic campers were W. Chipman, B. Fogg, C. Pike and C. Salembier. Six other campers completed the work on plaques which they had begun last year: D. Johnston, Jr. C; D. French, Jr. C; H. Ellis, Jr. C; J. Schwarzell, Jr. C; M. Growney, Jr. B; and W. Fleming, Jr. A.

The campers whose individual scores exceeded 400 were as follows:

Junior C's: W. Chipman, 649; C. Pike, 607½; B. Fogg, 599½; C. Salembier, 557; F. Evans, 510½; J. McHutchison, 490; J. Dresbach, 482; J. Salembier, 430.

Junior B's: C. Vicary, 612½; A. Tully, 544; M. Growney, 517½; M. West, 519; H. Dingle, 495; R. Vermilye, 482½; G. Landon, 435; T. Ross, 435; D. Matheson, 432½; J. Waterfall, 419½.

Junior A's: W. Fleming, 784; W. Lane, 562; R. Price, 526½; N. Gest, 477½; C. Haines, 448; H. Hedges, 445; M. Griley, 405; J. Carroll, 400½.

Last Water Meet Goes to Greys

During the afternoon of August 21, the Greys won the final hard-fought water meet from the Maroons, 44 to 40, in spite of losing the usually decisive war canoe race. J. McHutchison particularly distinguished himself for the victors, by placing first in the Jr. C balloon race and, with B. Birch, first in the Jr. C 2-man kick-board race. J. Van Horn, of the Greys, also placed first in two events, the Senior ping-pong blow and, with R. McCurdy, in the Senior in-and-out canoe race. B. Ford, also a Grey, took the Jr. A canoe-tilting, thus winning the only other individual first place of the day.

Special Awards Given in Nature, Perham Prizes Repeated

For the second time, special and appropriate awards were made in recognition of outstanding work in Nature. At the banquet, Mr. Kiefer presented a book of particular interest to the boy who had done the finest work in each age group. The Senior received Peterson's A Field Guide to the Birds; the Junior A, Mathews' Field Book of American Wild Flowers; the Junior B, Conard's How to Know Mosses; and the Junior C, McKready's A Beginner's Guide to the Stars.

Again the generosity of Mr. Stanley Perham made possible two very special awards in mineral study. Mr. Perham's mineral and gem shop in West Paris, Maine, has been the highlight of many interesting mineral trips. This year he kindly provided two beautiful specimens for presentation, a group of cinnamon garnet crystals for the Senior side of camp, and a large black tourmaline crystal for the Junior.

The Nature Department itself, which under Mr. Kiefer's fine direction has come to have more of lasting value and interest to offer to a camper than any other phase of camp life, received something of an award in the form of the new Ma Frank Memorial Building. The move was completely made, even to installing the heavy lapidary equipment, and the new building was in complete operation during the latter part of the season, thanks to the heroic efforts of Mr. Kiefer, and his assistant, Mr. Logan, who accomplished it all while keeping the hectic schedule of level work in full swing.

Junior and Senior Life Saving

Eleven campers have passed their Red Cross tests for Junior Life Saving, while seven Master Campers and Junior Counsellors completed the rigorous tests for Senior Life Saving. Joe Selden was the instructor of both classes. The J.L.S. badges earned each boy 75 points, and the S.L.S. were valued at 150.

In the Senators' half of the 1st, Carroll led off with a sharp single to right. Duncan then popped to first, followed by McCurdy's base-hit to left field. The inning ended as Miller and Smith grounded out to short and third.

Ed Hamblin started the ball rolling in the 2nd for the Indians, by slamming out a double to right, followed by Al Clark's swing and a miss, and Blau's fielder's choice. With two away and one run in, Stillinger stepped up, and drove a ball deep to center, which was caught by Duncan, ending the first half of the 2nd with the Indians leading, 2 to 0.

In the last of the 2nd, Stillinger once again displayed his talents as a dangerous pitcher, retiring Black, Robinson and Greenawalt on three consecutive strike-outs.

In the 3rd, Van Horn, Conkey and Fleming bowed to the Senators, as each popped to the infield to retire the side. When the Senators came to bat, Carroll and McCurdy both slammed out their second hits of the afternoon. Miller followed with a hefty belt to center, driving in three runs to set the Senators ahead, 3-2. Then Black struck out to end the inning.

The Indians soon had their revenge, for in the 4th Crandall and Stillinger both slammed out base-hits with men aboard. Van Horn then lined to short, doubling off Stillinger at second. This, combined with Hedges pop to the box, ended the inning for the Indians with one run on two hits.

Once again the Senators went down in order as the Stillinger infield tightened up to counteract the tremendous hitting-power of the Miller "Murderous Row" of sluggers.

In the Indian 5th, the Senators had their comeback, by retiring three in a row.

The Senator 5th proved to be the biggest threat of the game, as five runs crossed the plate on McCurdy's third hit and "Thumper" Miller's slug to center with two aboard.

With the score 8-3, Clark started the 6th with a clean base belt to right, followed by Crandall's base on balls and Stillinger's third hit for the day. Hamblin ended this four-hit inning by grounding out to second on a close play at first, leaving the score 8-7.

In the Miller half, with two away, McCurdy ended a perfect day by slamming out his fourth hit for four times at bat. McCurdy then raced home on "Thumper" Miller's powerized double to deep center. The inning ended with one run on two hits, as Smith popped to center for the third out.

Lodges, Sproul and Thriller Please Large Audience

The final and most ambitious program of Felix Ziffer's Dramatics Department was presented to a crowded and enthusiastic house the evening of August 20.

Three varied and successful lodge stunts opened the evening. The Polecats gave a very amusing take-off of a counsellors' meeting, with B. Birch, as Dean Miller, and S. Elliot, as Bates, making particular hits. The Panthers staged a series of brief and colorful vaudeville numbers, while the Deers broke with tradition by giving a serious murder mystery, in which the longest and most difficult parts were ably handled by W. Rutan and A. Tully. The piece was the original work of E. Tulloss and J. Selden, the latter of whom also introduced the scenes as narrator.

After one of Merrill Sproul's imitable song-and-dance interludes, the feature of the bill was presented. It was a forceful melodrama, entitled A Game of Chess, admirably performed by four counsellors, C. Windle, F. Ziffer, R. Stillinger and R. Miller.

Tournament Winners

The finals of a number of tournaments added interest to the concluding days of the season. The winners of each division in the Tennis and Wrestling tournaments are the campers who received the Champions' ribbons in those activities, while the boys they defeated were, of course, recognized with the ribbons of Runners-up.

The winners of the Recreation Hall tournaments received only the glory of winning, plus a very acceptable 50 points each. They were as follows:

Checkers: C. Pike, Jr. C; M. West, Jr. B; and W. Fleming, Senior.

Chess: J. Waterfall, Junior; and W. Fleming, Senior.

Ping-pong: A. Tully, Junior; and R. McCurdy, Senior.

Despite a vain attempt on the part of the Senators, the top of the 7th proved to be the fatal blow which won the game for the Indians. Clark and Crandall each got on, with sharp singles to right field. With two out and two on, Slugging Jack Van Horn stepped to the plate and laced into a tremendous triple which pulled the Indians ahead two runs and won the game for them, 10 to 9.

Miller and Greenawalt went for the Senators, giving twelve hits and walking but one, while Stillinger and Hamblin composed the battery for the pennant-winning Indians, allowing ten hits and passing one.

Campers Journey to End of Lake, See Herb Parsons Shoot

By K. BECK, MASTER CAMPER

On Wednesday, August 18, the campers of Kawanee took one of the most interesting and unusual trips that have ever been taken in the history of the camp. As on all the camp's trips, Mr. Bateman was in charge and had previously planned the day with Mr. Howell Windle, who is the director of the camp's range.

At 11:00 A.M., all the campers who had swum the lake departed in the camp's canoes for the other end of the lake. When they arrived there, they either hiked, or were transported, to the Masterman-Conant farm. By the time they had eaten their lunch there, the other boys had arrived by car and the whole camp was ready to see Herb Parsons, who is one of the best rifle shots in the world today, give a special exhibition.

He showed remarkable skill in throwing up objects, even as small as a dime or a marble, and hitting them. Mr. Parsons, who represents the Winchester-Western Company, used about ten different types of Winchester rifles and even more types of ammunition. He told the boys that the way to get ahead in any field is to pick the one thing that interests them most and to keep working and practicing on that one thing.

After shooting several different types of targets, ranging from clay pigeons to a dummy parachute, he ended his exhibition with an impressive shooting of three dots and a dash, which, he said, was not meant for Victory, which had already been won, but for Peace. On his last shot, which was meant to be a dash, he smashed a clay pigeon, which in turn unveiled an American flag.

Following his planned program, Mr. Parsons threw up any coins that the boys would give him and shot holes through them.

Alphabet Coming During Winter

More important matters have eliminated the Log from recent Wigwams, but it is scheduled to make one more appearance this year, when the Alphabet is printed at Christmas time in the special number of the Wigwam.

The Chief was again impressively portrayed by Mr. Kiefer. An innovation marked the ceremony when Dick Taylor, representing the campers of 1948, gave into the Chief's keeping a birch bark scroll, bearing a message for next summer's camp.
