

The Wigwam

Volume XVIII, No. 1

Camp Kawanhee, Weld, Maine

July 10, 1952

Dear Tribesmen and Friends of Kawanhee:

Kawanhee's thirty-second season began with a bang (or at least with a loud explosion of noise) late in the evening of Monday, June 30, when three big buses emptied their pent-up cargoes of boys in front of the Recreation Hall. These were the two groups of campers which Mr. George Frank and Mr. Raymond Frank had convoyed through by train from Ohio and New York respectively. The Ohio party, as had been more than half expected, had missed the early connection in Boston, came up to Portland by the afternoon train, and joined forces with the Easterners for the last lap into camp by bus. The gang reached the Webb Lake shores at an hour variously estimated as before or after 10:00 P.M., according to the individual's previous adjustment to Daylight Saving or continued adherence to Eastern Standard Time.

Rapidly going into solution with the tribesmen already on tap, the staff members who had been at work opening the camp and the campers and counsellors who had been arriving by car during the previous few days, the new arrivals immediately gave the camp the brimful appearance of another season at full strength. At the time, however, the chief attractions were the hot soup awaiting the travelers in the Dining Hall and a quick retreat to the waiting lodges and bed, with more than a passing thought of how wonderfully cool the Maine air felt after the heat, particularly of Ohio.

Tuesday, a bright, windy day which warmed up during the afternoon, was devoted to settling in for the summer. There were numerous items of interest to note in any lulls between physical examinations, rest hours, and the inevitable chore of unpacking. First of all it was obvious that the camp was to be well populated this summer, with 104 campers, according to the best available computation, and a staff of more than fifty. The camp itself looked shipshape and ready for the eight weeks to come. The docks were in, a fact sufficient in itself to indicate that Bates had been at work with a strong-arm squad before the opening. The war canoes were on their rests between Polecat and Pine Tree, entirely reconditioned and brave with fresh paint, while a group of new aluminum canoes attracted considerable attention on the shore. The electric lights recently installed in the lodges were innovations which seemed as revolutionary as they were welcome to all those who had learned in past years to grope their way to bed by the light (if it could be called a light) of oil lanterns as liberally sooted-up as a Junior B trying to pass his fire-in-wet weather test in Woodcraft.

There were plenty of new faces to be sorted out and hitched to names, and, happily, even more old friends to be greeted, most notably two individuals for whom all members of the Kawanhee tribe have a special regard: the Camp Mother, Mrs. R. C. Frank, with her unfailing friendliness for one and all; and Dr. Elmore, as he made his daily tour of his garden. And, all through the day, a heavy stream of traffic headed for the grove behind the Nature Building, where Wanhee's pen and shelter are inhabited this year by two small, long-legged, spotted fawns. Ten days previously the two baby deer had been brought to camp at the ages of one and three days. Even the game warden had not believed that the younger could survive, but Mrs. Frank sat up with it all the first night, feeding it at hourly intervals. Thanks to this care, two thriving, friendly fawns batted huge ears and stared with wonder at all the campers who made repeated visits of inspection.

By Tuesday evening, the camp was ready for the visit of Chief Kawanhee. Campers and counsellors gathered in the Recreation Hall to hear Mr. Raymond Frank tell of the early history of the valley and of the legendary Indian chief for whom the camp is named, before they filed quietly down the trail to stand around the Council Ring in the dusk. In response to Mr. Frank's call, the Chief, impressively impersonated by Mr. Kiefer, made his appearance. Each boy and man placed in the great central fire his stick in token of his individual contribution to the life of the summer's camp. The Chief pronounced his solemn blessing and, in symbolic terms as well as in fact, the season of 1952 was well begun.

Kawanhee Suffers a Great Loss

There was one great lack in the welcome which Kawanhee had to offer this summer. Laurence Briggs was not waiting to greet every boy and man as he and Mrs. Briggs (Emma, of course, to every tribesmen) have done for so many years.

This summer Laurence and Emma reached Kawanhee on June 2, and Laurence immediately immersed himself in the multitudinous tasks, which he knew and did so well, of setting the camp to rights for the opening. If, on the following Thursday evening, he spoke of being tired and turned in right after supper, it was not surprising, for he had, as usual, been doing enough work for six men. Soon after midnight he suffered a sudden heart attack, and before the morning light of Friday, June 6, he was gone. The funeral services for Laurence were conducted in Madison, Maine, his home, on Sunday, June 8, by Dr. Elmore.

It is difficult to think of Kawanhee without Laurence, for so many things in camp bring him immediately to mind: the good meals he cooked; the new showers he built; the boats he repaired; the lodges he roofed and painted—to mention only a few manifestations of his tireless work for the good of the camp. Instinctively one expects that, somewhere in, or near, the Dining Hall, one will come across Laurence and find him working away, as he always did both early and late, and all the while planning some further improvements. His devotion to, and interest in, Kawanhee was boundless and beyond price, and had been so ever since he and Emma first joined the Kawanhee staff in 1932. In those years, hundreds of campers and counsellors came to know and appreciate to how great an extent they were in Laurence's debt for the happy, healthy Kawanhee summers which they enjoyed. The loss of so irreplaceable a friend will always be felt in Kawanhee in too many ways to be counted. Every boy and man, every camper and counsellor and friend of the camp who has ever been so lucky as to have known Laurence, wishes that he knew how he could adequately express his sympathy and his affection to Emma, as well as his admiration of her loyalty and her courage in continuing her own invaluable work for Kawanhee.

With a mixture of regret and relief, this reporter is at long last able to announce himself as the Wigwam's editor. Not that an association which has become downright chronic in sixteen years is likely to be totally severed in one season! Yours Truly, however, does expect to limit himself to an advisory function in connection with this summer's camp paper, and to a few articles which will probably write themselves automatically as the result of long habit. A capable new editor, Ken Beck, takes over from this point on, and the Wigwam will reap the benefit of a fresh approach and new ideas. Although the hand behind the typewriter may have changed, the aim of the Wigwam will remain unaltered, to record for the campers, their parents and all the other friends of the camp, as complete a picture of the Kawanhee summer as can be captured in print.

C. SCARLETT

Veteran Counselors Return

This year Camp Kawanhee welcomes back a large number of veteran counselors. The directors, Mr. George Frank and Mr. Raymond Frank, have, as in the past, assembled a group of men, all of whom excel in their individual fields as well as being experienced camp leaders. As usual, a large number of these counselors are men who have spent a number of summers at Kawanhee. It is this backbone of experience that the camp has come to depend upon, and there could be no happier omen for the season's success than the fact that there are fifteen of these veteran counselors returning in 1952.

Camp Kawanhee is indeed fortunate to have on its staff Mr. H. C. Marshall who, after missing the past four summers, is returning for his twenty-seventh season. Mr. Marshall, the founder and past head-master of the Columbus Boy Choir School, is the camp's Program Director. The "Chief" and Mrs. Marshall have been residing in Dayton, Ohio, since his retirement from the Boy Choir School. Those well versed in Kawanhee history know that, because Mr. Marshall so faithfully played the roll of Chief Kawanhee in the traditional "Coming of the Chief" campfires, he soon became known to all his Kawanhee friends as "Chief" Marshall.

The Rev. Ross Miller returns to Kawanhee this year as Personnel Director. This is the Dean's twenty-sixth season at camp. For the past year the Dean and Mrs. Miller have been living in Alma, Michigan, where he is Professor of Religion and Dean of the Chapel at Alma College. Camp Devotions, Trips, and Stories will also consume much of the Dean's time this summer.

Clarence Bateman celebrates his twentieth anniversary as counselor at Kawanhee this year. The name "Bates" and "Trips" have become almost synonymous during the past twenty years, and already it is rumored that Mr. Bateman's truck will soon be on the road carrying the Kawanheites on trips and expeditions which they will long remember. It is only with his tireless energy and enthusiasm that Bates has developed the program of trips into one of the most interesting, varied and generally popular aspects of camp life.

The "Junior C" Program is in good hands this year, for once again Mr. Dave Barth returns to head up this important division of campers. Mr. Barth is a teacher of Geography at Linden-McKinley School in Columbus, Ohio. For several years he has been connected with the Junior Hi-Y in Columbus.

The Wigwam has a new editor this year in Ken Beck, who is returning for his seventh season at Camp Kawanhee. Ken will also head up the Camp Store and Post Office, jobs with which he has been connected for the past four years.

He is a resident of Columbus and a Junior at the Ohio State University.

Herb Birch finds himself connected with the Camp Shop this year, after serving seven consecutive summers as director of the Campcraft and Scouting Department. Mr. Birch is well qualified for his new position in the Shop, for he is a teacher of Industrial Arts at his home in Tenafly, New Jersey.

This will add up to Herb Brown's eighth season at Camp Kawanhee. He will spend all of his time in the Shop this summer. Herb is a Senior at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, and is a resident of Columbus, Ohio.

Arthur Kiefer is once more the head of Kawanhee's admirable and highly developed Nature Department. This is Art's twelfth year as head of this department and its success can be entirely accredited to his seemingly limitless expenditures of energy toward the improvement of his pet department. During the winter he is a teacher of Chemistry at North High School in Columbus, Ohio. He feels like a new man this year for he, along with two members of the faculty of The Ohio State University, has just completed writing a new high school chemistry book—a project which he has been working on for several years.

Dick Miller, of Alma, Michigan, has experienced almost every rank of camp life, from camper through Master Camper, Junior Counselor, Captain of the Maroons, and now, his fourth year as Senior Counselor in the Sailing Department. Dick is a graduate of Oberlin College and is planning to leave for Naval Officer Candidate School on, or about, August 22.

Once again Roy Nickerson is in charge of Boating, Canoeing and the Beach Guards. He will also work in an advisory capacity in both the Aquatics and Campcraft Departments. During the winter Nick is the Director of Athletics at Leonia High School in Leonia, New Jersey.

The man who perhaps has more jobs than any other Senior Counselor is John Nowold. He is in charge of Archery, Fishing, and the very time consuming Camp Score. He also expects to give Bates a hand on some of the Trips. He is Coach and Director of Physical Education at Mound Junior High School in Columbus and his Kawanhee history dates back to 1943.

For the twenty-ninth time, Campbell Scarlett is enrolled in the Kawanhee tribe, although for the first time since 1936, he has taken on the guise of Advisor for the Wigwam instead of that of Editor. He will continue to write the weekly Log as he has for more years than he, or anyone else, cares to remember.

Among those who can be described as, "coming up through the ranks", is Ted Wilson. This year Ted is full time assistant in the Swimming Department. He is a resident of Upper Arlington, Ohio, and is a Sophomore at Miami University. Although this is his first year as Senior Counselor, this is his seventh summer at Kawanhee.

Howell Windle is once again in charge of the Range and will naturally carry on that department's fine record of accomplishment and safety as he has done since 1934. He will again be the camp photographer, taking more of the grand pictures which have been enriching the booklet for many years. Mr. Windle is also the projectionist for the weekly movies in the Rec Hall. His home is in Morrisville, Pennsylvania, and he teaches Science at the Bok Vocational Technical School in Philadelphia. Once again he and Mrs. Windle are living at the upper end of the lake in their cottage, with Mrs. Windle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Marshall.

The Athletics Department is in good hands this year, for once more Ted Wolfe returns as its Director. Basketball, Field Events, and Baseball Instruction will be taking his time this summer. Ted's home is in Columbus, where he teaches American History at North High, as well as coaching football and basketball.

Seven New Seniors for Kawanhee

Lest the impression be conveyed that the staff is merely a collection of more or less well preserved antiques, the camp points with pride to seven new Senior Counselors, a number of whom have had some Kawanhee experience in the past years.

Heading up the list of those who might be considered "new" Senior Counselors is Bill Burleigh, a native of Tavares, Florida. Bill is a Sophomore at Amherst and is associated with the Campcraft and Shop Departments.

There will be a new king of the Tennis Courts this year, for from Cambridge, Massachusetts, comes Colin Carter who will be in charge of the Courts this summer. He is a Junior at Bates College, where he is on the varsity tennis team.

Dick Donnenwirth is first assistant in the Junior C Program this year. He is a Junior at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio, and his residence is in Upper Arlington, Ohio. His Kawanhee history dates back to 1946 and he will probably have to call on all the knowledge and experience which he has gained during his several Kawanhee summers to answer and solve all the questions and problems which his Junior C's will present to him.

"Mr. Swim" this year is Joe Driscoll of Scituate, Massachusetts. Joe is the director of this most important activity and this places on his capable shoulders the responsibility for all swimming instruction and the life saving classes. Joe is a teacher of Geography at Scituate High School.

The Campcraft and Forestry Department has a new head this year in Mr. Al Elliott. Al came to camp early this year with Bates so that they might get things in working condition before the larger part of the tribe arrived. He is a teacher of Civics at West High School in Columbus, Ohio.

Tom Magruder returns this year for his eighth season although he has not been here since 1945. He is to be first assistant in the Department of Sailing. Tom is a graduate of Wooster College and will enter the Yale Graduate School this fall.

Dan Whitacre will be busy this summer. He is an instructor in Boating, Canoeing, and Wrestling. Dan is a resident of Columbus and a Junior in The Ohio State University. His Kawanhee history dates back to 1940 when he was first enrolled as a camper.

Junior Counselors Are Experienced

The Junior Counselors represent an even higher percentage of Kawanhee experience than do the Seniors. Eleven out of the twelve of them have spent previous seasons as campers or Master Campers, and the total of their summers on the shores of Webb Lake would add up to an impressive total.

For Ray Brown, a Senior at the Columbus Academy, this is the fifth Kawanhee summer. He will assist in Athletics as well as being the Sports Editor of the Wigwam.

This is the fifth season for Sherman Denison of Shaker Heights, Ohio, where he is a Senior at the University School. This year Sherm will assist in Range and Athletics.

From Woodacres, Maryland, is Chuck Duvall who will assist in Tennis this year. This is his first year as a Junior Counselor and he is a Junior in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

The Store and Post Office, as well as the Range, will claim the time of Dave Fergus this year. Dave is a Sophomore in Upper Arlington High School and is a resident of Upper Arlington, Ohio.

Ivan Garbin of Englewood, New Jersey, will assist in Nature, Boating, and Trips this year. He is a Senior in Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood.

Captain of the Greys this year is Dick Harris. This is Dick's third Kawanhee summer and he is a Senior in the Engelwood School for Boys in Englewood, New Jersey, where he lives.

Archery will claim all the time of Herb Hedges this summer as he chalks up another season to his already long Kawanhee career. Herb is a Senior in Upper Arlington High School.

Phil Lattin is enjoying his sixth Kawanhee summer this year. He is from Cleveland Heights, where he is a Junior in Cleveland Heights High School. His activities this summer include the Camp Store, the Shop, and the Junior C Program. He will assist on the Wigwam, and to top all these off, he is the official camp bell-ringer.

Assisting in Nature this year is Bob Noyes, who returns for his fourth season at Kawanhee. Bob is a Senior at Mountain Lakes High School, where he lives in New Jersey.

Ted Parsons of Shaker Heights, Ohio, will devote all of his time this year to Campcraft and Scouting. Ted is a Senior in Shaker Heights High School and this is his fourth season at Kawanhee.

For his ninth Kawanhee summer, Chic Robinson returns to be captain of the Maroon Team. Chic is a native of Rocky River, Ohio, where he is a Junior in Rocky River High School.

The only newcomer among the Junior Counselors this year is Bruce Tuttle, who will assist in Fishing. His home is in Glen Cove, Long Island, and he is a student at Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, New Hampshire.

Three Master Campers serve as part time assistants in the Sailing and Nature Departments. They are thereby preparing themselves for possible future positions as Junior and Senior Counselors. The names of these Master Campers and the departments in which they have elected to work are as follows: Jim Beatty, Sailing; John Tribou, Nature; John Borghi, Nature.

Lodge Lists, July 5, 1952

EAGLE LODGE: Senior Counselors — Dick Donnenwirth, Ken Beck; Campers — T. Benua, W. Borel, T. Clark, J. Fish, K. Johnson, D. La Rue.

FALCON LODGE: Senior Counselor — David Barth; Junior Counselor — Phil Lattin; Campers — R. Borel, D. Connor, R. Duvall, H. Hamilton, B. Harrison, E. Knezevich.

PANTHER LODGE: Senior Counselor — Colin Carter; Junior Counselor — Bob Noyes; Campers — C. Davenport, B. Emerson, J. McKenzie, R. Rhine, M. Sterrett, D. Tuttle.

POLECAT LODGE: Senior Counselor — Tom Magruder; Junior Counselor — Ted Parsons; Campers — Barry Birch, J. Denise, G. Ford, P. Gelpi, N. Granholm, F. Richardson, J. Salembier, R. Sommers.

PINE TREE LODGE: Senior Counselor — Roy Nickerson; Junior Counselor — Bruce Tuttle; Campers — R. Baker, C. Creith, D. Hoover, S. Hoster, R. Johnson, J. Lewis, D. Platt, T. Vicary, J. Wright.

DEER LODGE: Senior Counselor — Herbert Birch; Junior Counselor — Herb Hedges; Campers — N. Anderson, F. Andrae, R. Angier, W. Diehl, E. Garbin, F. Gaston, M. Gelpi, J. Kenderdine, S. Miller, J. Murray.

BIRCH LODGE: Senior Counselor — Dick Miller; Junior Counselor — Chuck Duvall; Campers — R. Amorose, W. Dutcher, T. Hirsch, A. Hoster, W. Keating, C. Kurtz, D. Murphy, J. Roche.

BEAVER LODGE: Senior Counselor — Ted Wilson; Junior Counselor — Ray Brown; Campers — E. Born, C. Conant, P. Earle, W. Gibson, E. Granholm, D. Kerr, R. Knowlton, C. Salembier.

MOOSE LODGE: Senior Counselor — Herbert Brown; Junior Counselor — Dick Harris; Campers — J. Q. Brown, R. Gaston, T. Hicks, D. Hutton, S. Ryner, J. Schwarzell, J. Whitney.

LYNX LODGE: Senior Counselor—Dan Whitacre; Junior Counselor—Dave Fergus; Campers—R. Beatty, Brian Birch, J. Brown, D. McCabe, J. Shepard, J. Whitson, T. Wolcott.

WILDCAT LODGE: Senior Counselor—Ted Wolfe; Junior Counselor—Chic Robinson; Campers—R. Burleigh, D. Halsey, F. Hoster, J. Martin, G. Milliken, R. Rector, M. Robson, H. Schwarzell, N. Williams.

CROWS' NEST: Senior Counselor—Joe Driscoll; Junior Counselor—Sherman Denison; Campers—J. Beatty, R. Boyce, D. Earle, E. Johnson, P. Johnson, N. Knezevich, T. Lewis, H. McAllen, J. Murphy, J. Waterfall.

GREEN BARN: Senior Counselor—Bill Burleigh; Junior Counselor—Ivan Garbin; Campers—J. Borghi, W. Hadley, S. Klapp, G. Kraft, B. Miller, J. Tribou, J. Whitacre.

Kitchen and Infirmary in Good Hands

The Infirmary and the kitchen are two strategic points on the camp map immediately checked by everyone eager to see old friends and to make new ones, as well as by those who realize in how large a measure the health and happiness of the camp rest in the hands of the nurse and the cooks. In both places the findings of returning tribesmen were eminently satisfactory.

The nurse is Miss Truus Heldring, an R. N. from New York City. She still considers that her home is in Holland, near Arnhem on the Rhine, although she has been living in the United States for two and a half years. She is no stranger to the ways of American boys' camps, for last summer she served as staff nurse in the N. Y. Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund camp at Red Hook, N. Y. There she had to deal with a complete turnover of 180 boys every two weeks. After that experience it is to be doubted that Kawanhee will be able to stir up any surprises for her. With Miss Heldring in charge of the camp infirmary, and in view of the highly satisfactory report on Kawanhee health given by Dr. Maynard B. Colley, of Wilton, after his thorough examination of all the campers on Tuesday, July 1, Kawanhee has no doubts that this vital department of health is well in hand.

In the kitchen and pantry it was wonderful to find Emma (Mrs. Laurence Briggs of Madison, Maine) at her regular post. From the first meal of the season, the famous bread of her baking was a remembered joy to all old-timers and revelation to newcomers, while her first apple pies were, as the saying goes, right in the groove. Sharing the responsibility of filling the bottomless pit of the camp's appetite is Mrs. Susan Weld, of Dixfield, Maine. Although new to Kawanhee, Mrs. Weld is quite familiar with the problems of feeding hungry youngsters, since she does the cooking for the school cafeteria in Dixfield. She has quickly proved that she will have no trouble in meeting the standards of "good eating" to which Kawanhee is accustomed.

Another valued friend of the camp to be found in the kitchen is Miss Flora Fletcher who is serving as Emma's assistant for the tenth summer. Jim Armstrong, of Wilton, Maine, is in charge of the dining room. Rounding out the kitchen staff are Joanne Houle, Vicky Watt and June Vignault, all of Madison, and Bob Cushing and Red Deane of Jay, Maine.

Harris and Robinson to Lead 1952 Teams

The very important business of the division of the camp into Maroon and Grey teams was finally transacted on Thursday, July 3. Mr. Nowold announced the two captains as Dick Harris and Chic Robinson, and the cheer which greeted their appointment left no doubt of the popularity of the choice. By mutual agreement, Chic called the Maroons his own, and Dick chose the Greys. This summer there are two assistant captains, Ted Parsons for the Maroons, and Herb Hedges for the Greys. After supper, the entire camp met on the athletic field where Dick and Chic made their choices known and assembled their teams. As far as last year's high point winners are concerned, it appears as if the Greys have a slight advantage. Dick enlisted Tony Hirsch, who last year, while a Junior B, landed the astounding number of 914 points for his team, as well as the following high point winners for 1951: F. Richardson, J. Wright, F. Andrae, D. Kerr, D. Earle, R. Boyce, Brian Birch, and W. Hadley. The Maroons chose R. Sommers, M. Sterrett, G. Ford, S. Miller, and D. Fergus who were also high point winners last year.

The contest between the Maroons and the Greys is almost as old as the camp itself, for it originated in 1923. Since that time, the Maroons have scored fifteen victories, and the Greys twelve, while the season of 1948 proved to be the biggest upset of all by ending in a tie. Now that two more enthusiastic teams are lined up behind two able captains, there can be no doubt that the 1952 season is well under way, and all the auspices indicate that it is to be one of the happiest and most successful that Camp Kawanhee has ever enjoyed.

K. BECK

Greys Win Trial Athletic Meet

In the first Maroon-Grey competition of the '52 season, the Greys showed a definite edge in the track and field department by winning a decisive 135½ to 91½ victory, Saturday afternoon, July 5.

The meet, in which every boy in camp could compete within his respective age division, was designed to show the comparative strength of the two teams on the athletic field. The captains also benefited by receiving an opportunity to judge the athletic abilities of each boy. As a result, future meets will be more easily organized and competition will be on a keener level. The meet's score will not be counted with the teams' points for the season.

Winners of the events in the various age groups were as follows:

Junior C 50 Yd. Dash	R. Duvall, Maroon
Junior C Baseball Throw	R. Duvall, Maroon
Junior C Broad Jump	R. Duvall, Maroon
Junior C High Jump	R. Duvall, Maroon
Junior C Hop	E. Knezevich, Grey
Junior B 50 Yd. Dash	A. Hoster, Maroon & B. Birch, Maroon (tie)
Junior B Broad Jump	F. Richardson, Grey
Junior B Basketball Relay	Maroon Team
Junior A 50 Yd. Dash	J. Whitney, Grey
Junior A Broad Jump	J. Whitney, Grey
Junior A Basketball Relay	Grey Team
Senior 50 Yd. Dash	J. Borghi, Grey
Senior Broad Jump	R. Rector, Grey
Senior 440 Yd. Run	J. Borghi, Grey
Senior High Jump	J. Tribou, J. Whitacre, Maroons; R. Rector, Grey (tie)

In a renewal of an old camp tradition the Junior Counselors challenged the Senior Counselors to a softball game on Saturday evening. As usual, fanfare and plenty of show could not save the Junior Counselors from a defeat of 6-3 at the hands of the tried and found true Senior Counselors.

R. BROWN

The traditional Saturday night campfire wound up the season's first week. Since it was too early in the game for score and levels reports, the gathering sang college songs, heard the message of the 1951 sachems, which had been omitted from the ceremony of the Coming of the Chief, and listened to the year's initial Log. The morning service in the Recreation Hall, Sunday, July 6, brought the final assurance that all was well at Kawanhee with the music of the well remembered quartet and another of Dr. Elmore's wonderful sermons, without which no week, or season, would be complete.