Greys Carry Advantage into Home Stretch

The Greys swept into the season's last lap well ahead of their rivals. At the campfire of Saturday, August 15th, Dave Fergus announced the totals of that date to be: Greys, 11,496; Maroons, 10,656. During the week the Greys had added almost five hundred points to their lead, increasing it from 343 to 840 points. Captain Bobb might well ask "just more of the same" of his team for the remaining seven days of activities to create a most hopeful picture of a final Grey victory awaiting at the banquet.

The two teams had contributed a total of 6663 points to the combined score since the campfire of August 8th. Certain departments were at last beginning to chip in with those long threatened pay-offs. The Aquatics, or Swimming, Department reported forty-three levels for a total of 1345 points, divided very unevenly, 950-395 in favor of the Greys. Boating produced another large block of points, 1210, split 755-455 to the advantage of the Maroons. Other departments were also doing big business in levels, but none in such quantities as the final week would bring forth.

The Greys had enjoyed another successful week in sports events. The only two Maroon-Grey encounters, both of which took place on Saturday, August 15th, were the usual water meet and, at last, a completed sailing regatta. The Greys won the water meet 110 to 74, collecting the standard bonus of 25 points as well. Grey sailors too had a happy day, ending up with 60 points to 39 for the Maroons.

Nature Department Stresses Field Work

We get to talking about the new additions to the Kawanhee activity program so much that sometimes we forget to mention the important old stand-bys. In that category we might place Shop, Boating, Athletics, Riflery, Campcraft, Aquatics and Nature. Since the assigned purpose of this article is to discuss the Nature Department, we can, for the time being, dispense with those other activities and concentrate on the birds, the bees, and, ahem, the flowers and trees.

First of all we should say, in all modesty, that Kawanhee's Nature facilities are among the finest in the state. The abundant woods which encircle the camp offer the primary advantage, but on top of that, Kawanhee has an excellent Nature building where there is work space available for long-term projects and lapidary equipment. Beyond and above this are the fine men who lead the Nature investigation and answer the campers' hundredfold questions. Each man specializes in one or two particular phases of the overall program. The head of the department for, lo, these several years has been Forrest Dexter. By his own description, Mr. Dexter is in charge of the lapidary shop. Running down the roll, we find Dan Spivey as the man to see for flowers or stars, Al Hoster for birds, and Joel Pardee on general principles.

Special trips form one section of the Nature program which attracts particular attention. This season there have been several expeditions, among them excursions for minerals, trips for star-gazing, and one extra-special safari over to the State game preserve near Chesterville, Maine, for observation of wild life. The wonderful advantage of the field trip is that it places the boys right in nature rather than putting nature study on a plane with clinical observation. Along this same line, it should be said that the Nature Department tries to get at least one man who knows trees, wild life and so forth on each major camping trip. The reason for this is fairly obvious. Boys out in the wilds, confronted by new natural phenomenon, are very likely to ask questions and, with a "naturalist" along, these questions can be answered on the spot.

The Nature Department, above all, strives to implant in campers the realization that the beauty of nature is not something which can be rated in dollars and cents. So often, a boy's first reaction upon being shown some object of beauty is: "What's it worth?" The Nature Department wants to answer that question by showing that the real value of something is in the aesthetic pleasure which may be derived from it.

Campers of the Twenties Return

The week's visitors were as welcome as some of the weather was not. Two gentlemen who recalled Kawanhee's earliest decade paid brief calls, Bill Milne of Rumford, Rhode Island, on Tuesday, and Chet Sawtelle of Marblehead, Mass., on Thursday. Both were Senior campers here in the mid-Twenties, and have waited these many years to return to the shores of Webb Lake. The more recent years of the '30's were brought to mind when Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sullivan of Englewood, N. J., spent several days at the Inn. Warren's well remembered career as a camper embraced not only his tour of duty as captain of the victorious Maroon team in 1939, but also several seasons as the Wigwam's star sports reporter. The name of Sullivan is again very big in Kawanhee with Warren's triplet sons, Jeffrey, Peter and Bill forming a very important part of the Eagle-Falcon population. The two-generation guest register was further distinguished when young Tom Cole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cole of Columbus, Ohio, arrived for the closing days of the season. This is a double entry, for Mr. Cole was a camper and counselor in his day and Mrs. Cole once held sway in the infirmary as Kawanhee's nurse. Another couple greeted with particular pleasure were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Greenawalt of Akron, Ohio, who stopped at the Inn for two days of their honeymoon trip. Mitch wound up a series of six Kawanhee summers with two seasons as a Junior Counselor in 1949 and 1950.

Kawanhee Teams Visit Camp Mitigwa

Junior baseball, tennis and rifle teams from Kawanhee were the guests of Camp Mitigwa on Wednesday, August 12th, for a three-part meet. With Mr. Bateman and Mr. Nickerson, the Kawanhee contingent drove to Rangeley in the big truck after dinner and spent the afternoon and evening on the shore of Dodge Pond in competition with their hosts.

Sports honors for the day were divided. The Kawanhee softball team made a very poor showing in the game played during the afternoon, losing by the decisive score of 12-2 to a hard-hitting Mitigwa nine. The tennis matches were delayed, with the result that only one of the scheduled three was completed and one set of the second played. Ben Griffin lost his match 6-1, 8-6, and Roy Welton won the single set 6-3. It remained for the Dead-eye Dicks from the Range to redeem the fame of Kawanhee, shooting a team total of 843 points out of a possible 1000, to the 590 of the Mitigwa marksmen. Individual scores, in each case with 250 as a possible top, were: J. Glidden, 220; R. McCandless, 212; J. Willis, 209; and B. Birch, 202.

At supper time the visitors were invited to join Mitigwa for a most enjoyable cook-out—hamburgers, corn on the cob, ice cream, etc., etc. It was, indeed, the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Nixon and of all Mitigwa which made the day memorable for the Kawanhee representatives rather than any wins or losses in the various contests.

Indian Lore Department Stages Dance

Thursday evening, the newly formed Indian Lore Department, under Dave Forry, brought forth its most ambitious project of the season to date. This was a reenactment in dance of the Indian story entitled "The Shooting of the White Buffalo".

Basically, what the Indian lore group has been trying to do this summer is to promote an understanding of the American Indian, his life and culture, so that campers will begin to realize that Indians didn't spend all their time scalping settlers. Toward that end, a few boys have spent time fashioning colorful costumes, and learning about the first American's basic means of expression, dancing.

Thursday, we had a fine example of their work. With the shadows of evening lengthening, we assembled in the Council Ring on the Point, and were told that we were about to see a story told as it might have been around an Indian campfire. Dave Forry and B. G. Burr took their places, keeping rhythm on two skin drums, and the white buffalo (Jim Cushman) entered the ring. Following him closely was Joel Pardee as the hunter. These two, as well as the drummers, were dressed in vividly colorful costumes. The action built rapidly as the hunter and the hunted vied back and forth choreographically. Dancers' anklet bells rattled shrilly, while the drums built an exciting rhythm behind the action. The swirling reds and blacks and whites blurred as the climax was reached, and the hunter prepared for the kill. Then, with a frantic beating of drums, the white buffalo was downed. Triumphant and sad at once over his kill, the hunter picked up the lifeless body and walked slowly from the ring.

Kawanhee Little League Trail Ends

With the standings already decided, the two Little League games of the week were of little consequence. These two games were originally scheduled for Monday and Tuesday nights. Rain, however, caused a postponement until Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday, the champion Green Ghosts met the low-flying Blue Streaks. The latter upset the former in a real thriller, a 5-4 game which the Greens almost pulled out of the fire. Highlights of the game were a homer by Tom Fischgrund of the Blues and the twelve strikeouts registered by Chuck Compher.

The last game of the Little League season on Thursday put the Redskins against the Black Labels. At the end of three innings the score was very close at 3-2, but the Redskin batting order came suddenly to life, scoring 8 runs. This drive featured home runs by John Glidden and Steve Lutz and triples by John Forman and Dick Morton. Redskin pitcher Carlos Del Valle quickly retired the Blacks, giving the Redskins a 10-3 victory.

There was, on Saturday night, one more bit of notable baseball activity. The "old men" of Kawanhee, better known as the Senior Counselors, showed that a lot of young blood courses through their veins by besting the Junior Counselors, hitherto known as the "young squirts", by a score of 10-6 in a game of softball.

Gold Panners Try Luck on Swift River

The first section of the Swift River trip finally bounced out of camp after breakfast Friday, August 14th, after being delayed four days by the heavy rains of Monday and the failure of the woods to dry out in the slowly improving weather which followed. The mixed group from the Hawk, Deer and Moose lodges rounded Mt. Tumbledown in the "Bates-mobile" and came to a stop at the Outpost Camp at approximately 9:15 A.M. Here we unloaded supplies and shortly headed out to try our hands at gold panning. Swift River has long been known for its gold, having been one of the first places in the United States to produce the precious metal which has come to mean so much to man. Even today one can find a few old prospectors still digging in her banks.

Led by Herb Birch, John Fulda and Pete Schofield, our team of fifteen Kawanhee prospectors set up operations about a mile down stream from the Outpost. Two hours and a few gold nuggets (?) later, we decided that for our purposes Swift River was much better for swimming than for gold panning, and we all dunked ourselves in a near-by pool.

At one o'clock we gathered around to partake of the 'box lunch which had been brought along. What with a morning of good physical exercise, we were really hungry and, in about twenty minutes, the only thing empty in those parts was the lunch box.

Along about two o'clock our group met the second section of the Kawanhee prospectors. After heading these boys in the direction of the known gold deposits, we decided to mosey on back to the Outpost to enjoy one last swim before Bates came to take us back to Kawanhee.

As the afternoon came to a close we heard the "Beep beep" of the camp truck and knew that it was time to head for home. As we loaded ourselves into the truck, one boy was heard to say, "Even if it did rain us out for four days, we still came late and had a great time. Can you beat that?" And away we went.

Outpost Campers Eat Well, Dip Often

Friday at 11:00 A.M. the overnight trip to Kawanhee's Outpost Camp on Swift River started out under the direction of Herb Birch. The party was made up of campers from the Panther, Polecat and Pine Tree Lodges.

The group stopped briefly at the Outpost Camp to unload the duffles and to pick up Tom Knowlton, John Fulda and Tom Ultes who were to help with the meals, etc. After a trail lunch at Bates' cabin the party went down the river to pan gold. Although very little of the precious metal was found, the experience seemed very exciting to the boys. At the end of a long afternoon's work in the sun, a swim felt very good to the junior "prospectors".

Back at camp, while some of the boys helped at various K. P. duties, the rest of the party started to get the tents up and the sleeping bags and bed rolls ready for the night. After a wonderful dinner of chicken soup, bacon-lettuce-and-tomato sandwiches and corn on the cob, the boys helped clear up and finished getting the tents ready for the night. Just before turning in, they all went for a refreshing dip in the cool rushing waters.

Saturday morning everyone, except a few Junior Counsellors, rose bright and early to prepare breakfast and to have crab apple fights. When the meal was over, the group left for a hike into the back woods to "tour" a beaver dam. The excursion was very enjoyable except for a few "soakers" here and there.

The troupe went for a dip when it returned, while the leaders prepared dinner. Mr. Birch certainly outdid himself on that meal! There were hamburgers, peas and, to the boys' delight, all the french fries they could eat! When dinner was over and everything was cleaned up, the boys went to their tents and packed.

While the older boys loaded the truck, Mr. Birch took the rest of the party up the river to a special swimming place for their last dip in Swift River before returning to Kawanhee. About four o'clock, the boys piled into Bates' bus and came home — a very tired but happy group.

Greys Score Another Aquatic Victory

Under the hot, hazy sky of Saturday afternoon, August 15th, the Greys won the water meet from a scrappy Maroon amphibious contingent by the score of 110 to 74. One third of the way through the program, the Maroons led 42-28 by virtue of a clean sweep in the Junior A Underwater Swim. It took an offsetting Grey sweep, led by Pete Sullivan coming in fast on an outside course, in the Junior B Cub Ping-Pong Blow to clear the decks for the Greys' dominance of the concluding Junior A and Senior events. A large gallery impartially cheered on all contestants, meanwhile giving fragmentary attention to the tacking of the white-winged boats in the Sailing Regatta progressing apace on the reaches of the lake beyond the cove.

Variety characterized the schedule of events. The Junior A "Arm-pull" sounded particularly baffling on first announcement, but proved to be a one-lap swim by arm power alone, each contestant's legs having been bound together rendering them useless for swimming. The Senior Obstacle Canoe Race included not only two "in-and-outs", but also a canoe-over-canoe rescue. This latter maneuver was performed with great efficiency and dispatch by rescuers Dave Harrison and Jim Holden, and by B. G. Burr and C. Gilbert as the rescued. The Underwater Swim gave George Johnson the opportunity of doing what he failed to do the previous week — turning underwater and starting back toward the little dock before surfacing. Midway in the program Official Gardner Defoe was unceremoniously boosted from the big dock, and members of this summer's J. L. S. class staged a hammed-up rescue in honor of their teacher, the then dripping Mr. Defoe.

The Summary:

SENIOR BACKSTROKE-BREASTSTROKE RELAY — First: C. Fowler, T. Hirsch (G); Second: J. Bobb, C. Clarke (G); Third: R. Shepard, P. Kuhns (M).

Grey Sailors Capture Regatta Points

The fourth Maroon-Grey regatta got underway in a good westerly breeze Saturday, August 15th. The event was raced over a three-legged course — beat, reach, run — and consisted of a four-boat round robin in the Tech dinghy class, and a two-out-of-three match race for the Cape Cod knockabouts.

Alan Beck took the Cape Cod competition in two races, sailing first the Gull and then the Hawk. The dinghy racing proved to be the closest of the season. The three top skippers tied for first at the end of the third race. Dave Bittenbender took the series by winning the last race by a close margin.

Individual scores were compiled by the point system, that is, one point for starting, one point for each boat beaten, etc. The team scores were computed by adding 20 points to the sum of the winning team's individual scores, and 10 points to the losers' total. The final result was a Grey victory of 60 points to 39 for the Maroons. The individual results were:

Tech Dinghy Round Robin — First: D. Bittenbender (G), 17; Second: D. Roth (G), 15; Third: J. McGee (M), 13; Fourth: M. Sabback (M), 12.

Cape Cod Match Race — First: Greys (A. Beck, skipper with S. Culter, R. Carrick, crew), 8; Second: Maroons (W. McKenzie, skipper, with L. Perry, H. Cory, crew), 4.

Sunday Services and Celebrations

Sunday morning found a large congregation of campers and guests gathered in the church on the shore. Ed Chace read the story of the Good Samaritan as the morning's lesson, and Dave Fergus delivered the prayer. The quartet sang I Shall Not Pass This Way Again as its offering. Dean Miller's sermon dealt with Friendship, opening with the line "The most costly business I know is friendship."

While the camp was at its devotions by the lake, "fifteen ambassadors of good will", led by Dave Forry, sang at the service in the village celebrating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Weld Church. Dave brought back an expression of the church's thanks for this gesture and for the support and contributions of so many people connected with Kawanhee over the years.

Another celebration enlivened the dining hall at noon when Emma and Abby honored the birthdays of Dean Miller and Mr. Bateman (and favored the lucky head tables) with blueberry pies and a gaily decorated cake. In the customary birthday salute, the two gentlemen were credited with thirty-nine hand-claps — but whether these were to be taken jointly or individually was not specified!

At the evening gathering in the Recreation Hall the choir made a feature of singing A Mighty Fortress Is Our God and the Malotte setting of the Lord's Prayer. John Redick was vigorously applauded for his piano solo, The Spinning Song. Al Hoster brought the day to a conclusion with a handsome set of still pictures taken this summer in Kawanhee and on various camp trips.
