THE NEW DINING HALL AND LODGES

As many of you know, it is our goal to have the new dining hall and lodges ready for the '78 season. The dining hall construction is going well and we're sure you'll be eager to see the new building this summer. For and we're sure you'll be eager to see the new building this summer. For those of you who are dying of curiosity, though, we'll try to outline some of the features of the new building here.

The basic difference between the old and the new buildings is that in the original structure, the dining area and kitchen were on the first floor and the nine bedrooms were above. In the new building, there are eleven bedrooms on the ground level and the dining and kitchen facilities are above. Also, the new building is 60' x 90', approximately one-third larger than the old. than the old

Due to the fact that a stone fireplace would cost about $8,000, we are constructing a steel fireplace in the new dining hall. "Big John" Detrick & his crew will install this in June for close to one-eighth the cost of stone. Herb Birch has volunteered his services to build the new dining hall tables along with an able assistant. These will be cut and assembled in June. A new system which utilizes a cart for each lodge table will, we believe, prove to be a practical method for setting, serving, and clearing tables. tables

As of this writing, we are studying the relative merits of glass versus plexiglass for the windows. building.

Early in June, "Big John" and crew will zero in to complete our new single building, (same location as before), which will replace Eagle & Falcon lodges. There will be a hallway separating the two groups, but because of time, space, and expense factors, these two groups will be under one roof. As most of us know, Eagle and Falcon house the youngest boys, and their activities are usually assigned together. Our study has indicated that the overall advantages of one building for these two lodges outhered the disadvantages. outweigh the disadvantages outweigh the disadvantages.

Birch Lodge will be re-built in '78 If there is time. There is a possibility that construction of this lodge could commence during the season under "Big John's" supervision with the help of volunteer older campers. Another alternative is to wait until '79 to finish Birch Lodge. If additional lodge space is required for the summer of '78 we have considered the possibility of knocking out the walls in Badger Lodge to enlarge that lodge. If that plan is followed, a new outside stairway to Crow Lodge (which is above Badger) would be constructed.

In '78 all deliveries by service vehicles will be made by the new entrance along the existing right of way from the main road running between the fort and the infirmary directly to the new kitchen. This road is used currently by Central Maine Power as well as by telephone

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTORS

The Directors of Kawanhee are deeply appreciative for the total cooperation from all sources following last summer's July 20th fire. Parents, campers, Weld townspeople, and staff all worked together smoothly to assure a rapid return to our regular program. It is significant to note that not one camper left for home on account of the fire. We thank all hands for pulling together.

not one camper left for home on account of the fire. We thank all hands for pulling together.

Thanks in abundance too go to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blau and all other "Friends of Kawanhee" who contributed time, talent, and/or money to help us assure that there will always be a Kawanhee—the wish of "G.R." and "R.C." Frank, Kawanhee's founders.

Construction on our new dining hall and kitchen is going very well. This building, along with the new lodges, will be completed prior to our 78 opening date, June 25. Plans for the purchase and installation of kitchen fixtures and equipment are now being made, so that the entire project will be ready for feeding hungry campers in June.

We believe that when a boy is offered the advantage of participating in Kawanhee's program of some 20 activities, he finds new interests, increases his skills, and grows in self-esteem. At the same time, through group living, he has the opportunity to develop life-long habits in acquiring that all-important trait—how to get along well with others. Parents, there is no better summer investment for your son than to enroll him at Kawanhee.

We, the Directors of Kawanhee, pledge to perpetuate the spiritual and physical values which have been a significant force in the lives of Kawanhee campers and counselors for 57 years.

Shortly after the fire last summer a group of former campers and counselors, who were vacationing in Weld, began discussing ways of helping Kawanhee rebuild. All believed that many former and present Kawanheeans would want to help if they knew what had happened and of plans for the future.

plans for the future.

Using all available camp directories, which unfortunately covered only the years 1950 through 1977, we began the task of putting together a mailing list that ultimately grew to include more than 1700 names. In late September a letter and special edition of the Wigwam describing the fire and Kawanhee's need for help were sent to each person on the list.

Early results were discouraging. Many addresses were more that wenty years old and no longer current. Within the first two weeks nearly four hundred letters with out-of-date addresses were returned. On the positive side, however, more than 1300 letters were delivered and it soon became clear that our hopes for support were well founded. Replies have now been received from more than two hundred individuals who have contributed over $32,000 to help Kawanhee rebuild.

Two plaques will hang on the wall of the new main lodge, one dedicating the building to the memory of a group of Kawanhee campers, counselors, and friends now gone in whose names special gifts have been made, and a second, saluting the generosity of all who have contributed. No information about the size of gifts will be disclosed, as we feel this should be confidential. If you would like to have your name up there, quietly witnessing future armies of ravenous boys devouring pizzas, roast chicken or blueberry pie, it is not too late. Fixtures and equipment for the new dining hall are now being analyzed for purchase and prices are so exorbitant that additional funds are still badly needed. Friends of Kawanhee will be happy to hear from you at 48 Highland Circle, Wayland, Massachusetts, 01778. Gifts, great and small, will be appreciated at any time but to have your name included on the plaque, your gift must be received by May 1, 1978.

formal plans underway for an "old timers" weekend next summer in late July or early August. Some old timers might be all of twenty-two while others may be considerably older. Anyone who has ever been associated with camp should consider a return visit. We can't offer you a drink from the fountain of youth, but a long overdue reunion on the shores of Lake Webb will make you step lighter.

A NOTE FROM BATES

While at Kawanhee, if you are up early in the morning, you may hear the weird and eerie call of a pair of loons flying up the lake, while from back in the woods you hear the croaking and fussing of a family of ravens. If you are familiar with these unusual birds, then their calls are music to your ears. Take a walk down toward the council ring and as you look down over the bank towards the lake you see such rare flowers as the lady-slipper, the trillium, bunch berries and many others. Stop at the chapel area, sit down and keep quiet and you will see and hear many of the creatures of the wild. I have seen species of all the wild animals of Maine except two, the marten and the otter. Reach out your hand and you can pick mountain cranberries. Pull off a new growth leaf of the wintergreen and chew it. The taste and fragrance is better than any found in chewing gum. Open one of the little blisters found on a balsam fir tree and you find a clear, sticky fluid which is known as an excellent antiseptic. The famous old dinner bell rings and you know it is time for breakfast, and man what luscious food, and so much of it, served by Ruth, Ginny, Nancy and Patti.

and Patti.

Soon after breakfast, activities start. Stop in at the wrestling building where you see a thick, soft rubber mat 30 feet x 30 feet. It is much better than most high schools have. Many of the campers who have never been on a mat before are showing skills and speed in learning how to defend on a mat before are showing skills and speed in learning how to defend themselves. When tournament time arrives you will see enthusiastic matches, much more interesting than any pro matches you see on television, and none of these are fixed. These campers must get most unusual instruction.

Nearby is the rifle range where you see dignity and patience in the practice of hitting the bull's eye. Many of these boys have never had a rifle in their hands before. They are learning the safe and correct way to use firearms, as set up by the National Rifle Association. They receive medals and certificates from Washington. Some become so good they qualify as expert riflemen.

Move on down to the athletic field and see top notch enthusiasm on the qualify as expert riflemen. baseball field. Sure, you will see a lot of errors but also a lot of homeruns.

Notes and gleanings as to the Activities of Various Kawanheeans as reported to Tom Taylor

Greetings from the Winter Wonderland of Kawanhee. The months of January and February saw much snow, rain, wind, and floods. But neither sleet, nor snow, nor wet of flood kept the builder's from working on the new Dining Hall. Tom Taylor kept the road cleared with his new, but well-broken-in, snowblower, and the building has really progressed quickly. The roof was finished before the turn of February, and interior work is now progressing well.

FRANNIE FRANK

Howard Zechiel

Cold Spring Harbor, New York

-by Tom Taylor

Lincolnshire, Illinois

Many in the Kawanhee family were saddened recently to hear of the passing of Frances L. Frank, (Mrs. Raymond C. Frank). Although the Kawanhee braves of the past ten years did not have the opportunity to "Frannie", two generations of braves enjoyed her care and enthusiasm.

While Frannie headed no particular activity, counselors of every department eventually came to her for help. Frannie made all the sails for the boats constructed in the shop as well as mending those used on the big sailboats. She patched bases for the ball diamonds and lent encouragement wherever she could. Frannie helped boys take pride in their activities by attaching numerous Range, Sailing, and other patches to countless shirts and jackets. She was never too busy to help.

Boys and counselors alike who needed someone with whom to talk soon found themselves at "Frannie's Cabin" where they were sure to find an interested listener and an encouraging talker. Frannie's customary "As you can plainly see . . ." will bring back for many persons remembrances of numerous conversations with Frannie that left a boy feeling a whole lot better. Frannie filled her cabin with care and affection for us all and we recognized it and appreciated it. and we recognized it and appreciated it.

The Kawanhee family sends condolences to Betty Frank Smith, Frannie's daughter, and joins her in a sense of loss. As we bid farewell to Frank, though, we realize that she shall forever be a part of us through her example of love and concern for others.

He forced The Wigwam to print a story on how he was the Horse Champion for 1977 instead of the real champion B. A. Altmaier. When The Wigwam asked B.A. about this, all he said was, "Mr. Yardley is over the hill and he has to use these methods to keep up with me. Like always, I'll do my talking on the basketball court
